MARION TODAY BIDS GOOD-BYE TO THE HARDINGS

FRONT PORCH VALEDICTORY

Harding Tell of Gratitude Which Fills His Heart.

AFTER SILVER PLAQUE IS GIVEN BY DR. M'AFEE

Great Crowd Assembles at the Harding Home.

Farewells Are Said by the Home Folks, Who Wish President-Elect and Mrs. Harding Hearty Godspeed Today.

All Marion declared a holiday for two hours this morning to participate in the last front porch gathering at the Harding Mt. Vernon avenue home before the inauguration, take part in the presentation of its gift of a solid silver plaque to President-Elect and Mrs. Warren G. Harding and say good-bye to them before their departure this evening for Washington.

A feeling of sorrow at leaving and a promise to "serve in good conscience to the best of my ability," was voiced by President-Elect Harding. He expresed the belief that nothing more precious or more heartening can come to a man than the certified confidence and good esteem of his friends and neighbors and added that he can wish for nothing better than to come back at the end of his public service with an esteem "measurable to that which you have shown me here at home."

Those Heart Pangs.

"No one can avoid those heart pangs," Mr. Harding said in voicing his feeling of sorrow at leaving, "and we go with a sense of great responsibility that has its effect—its chastening effect—upon any tendency to think in a spirit of pride or superiority. We go as one of you, because the true republic calls to service those of the great common people."

"I thank you for myself and Mrs. Harding again and again for this manifestation," Mr. Harding said in conclusion. "It will hearten us more than you can know and you can be sure that this expression of neighborliness and friendship will be an inspiration and an assurance throughout the term of our public service."

Thousands attended the exercises and estimates of the size of the crowd ran from 5,000 to 10,000. Youths found vantage points in trees, neighboring porches were filled and there was a solid mass of people from the steps of the Harding home to the houses across the street. The crowds also extended into the neighboring yards and for a considerable distance east and west along the street.

Vehicular Traffic Stopped.

Some time before the hour for the exercises — 11 o'clock — vehicular traffic along Mt. Vernon avenue from Vine to Bradford streets was stopped, and for possibly an hour before the exercises began there was a steady stream of people moving toward the Harding home on both sides and in the center of the street.

Industrial plants, banks, the library and court-house offices closed at 10 o'clock and schools and business houses closed their doors at 10:30 o'clock in order to permit all to attend the farewell. The banks, library and court-house remained closed until 1 o'clock, while the schools, business houses and industrial plants closed until noon.

Cheers went up from the crowds as President-Elect and Mrs. Harding and Dr. and Mrs. T. H. McAfee came out on the porch. Still and "movie" cameras men immediately became busy and as the cheering died down the clicking of many cameras became audible. The cheering continued for several minutes and until D. R. Crissinger, president of the Marion Civic association, called for silence in order that the speaking program might begin.

Reads a Telegram.

Dr. T. H. McAfee, pastor of Trinity Baptist church, of which Mr. Harding is a trustee, began his speech of farewell and presentation of the silver plaque by reading a telegram from the Seattle, Washington, chamber of commerce wishing Mr. and Mrs. Harding every success in their official life. The message embraced Seattle's "kindest wishes, earnest hope for success and cordial Violent Disorders Reported in City of Moscow—British Foreign Officials Wait for Advices from Petrograd.

London, March 2.—The British foreign office was, today, without confirmation of reports of violent fighting between soviet troops and insurgent workmen at Petrograd and Moscow. Foreign office officials were skeptical of the reports.

According to the Helsingfors correspondent of the Central News, the Kronstadt garrison has joined the insurgent workmen. The Central News despatch follows:

"There is fighting in several parts of Russia, the worst being in Petrograd and Moscow. Thirty thousand strikers drove the soviet troops across the city of Petrograd. The fighting was most sanguinary. The soviet command rushed up reinforcements to save the survivors. The Kronstadt garrison has joined the rebels."

The following Exchange Telegraph despatch was received from Helsingfors:

"The Finnish general staff has received confirmation of a revolution in Petrograd. Many persons have been killed in severe street fighting. Several quarters of the city are in the hands of the rebels. There is much looting."

CHAMP CLARK PASSES AWAY

Veteran Democratic Leader is Claimed by Death.

DEMISE COMES IN WASHINGTON TODAY

Clark Is Veteran of Many Historic Battles.

Is Long the Speaker of the House of Representatives—A Fiery Orator and Determined Fighter for Party.

Washington, March 2.—Champ Clark, of Missouri, veteran Democratic leader, died here, shortly after 2 o'clock, this afternoon.

The aged leader had been fighting a grim battle against pleurisy and a complication of diseases for more than a week.

Nearly two weeks ago, Mr. Clark was stricken with an attack of acute indigestion and was quite ill for a time. He was able to leave his apartments, however, but then contracted pleurisy and an old malady—hardening of the arteries—set in and for the past ten days, he has been bitterly fighting against death.

For the past two days, the condition of the former speaker of the house has been critical and much of the time he has been unconscious.

The house and senate did not take an adjournment as is customary, in deference to the wishes of the dead man.

Today, during a brief interval when he recovered consciousness, Mr. Clark, realizing that death was near, asked that leaders of the house and senate be requested not to take an adjournment as he realized that they had a great deal of work before them—and thus, in his dying moments, the greatest concern of this leader of Americans was for the business of congress—the business which has been so much of his daily life for the past quarter-century.

The last time he regained consciousness, he made some remarks about legislative matters and in his delirium, during today, he has been under the impression that he was again speaker of the house and was presiding over it in session.

The ex-speaker's wife, son, Bennett Clark and daughter, Mrs. James Thompson, of New Orleans, were at his bedside when the end came. The members of his family had been summoned here in the latter part of last week, but it was not until yesterday that all hope for recovery of the former speaker was given up by his physicians.

But for the two-thirds rule of the Baltimore convention Champ Clark would have been the Democratic nominee for president of the United States instead of Woodrow Wilson in 1912. And looking back on the campaign, political writers agree that the nomination would have, in all probability, meant his election with all that such a victory meant in such a tremendous period of American history in place of his New Jersey rival.

For twenty-seven ballots in that historic convention Champ Clark held a commanding lead and for nine of these had a clean majority of the convention votes. Then came the famous "Wall Street" special of William J. Bryan which turned the tide and resulted—after a deadlock of more than a week—in the selection of Wilson. Bryan insisted that August Belmont, Charles F. Murphy, Thomas F. Ryan and other representatives of "the interests" were supporting the Missourian, and although Clark's supporters pointed out that none of the New Yorkers were for their candidate as a first choice the effect of the attack could not be overcome.

Was Bitter Disappointment.

Friends agreed that it was the bitterest disappointment of Champ Clarke's eventful life when his hopes of attaining the goal of his political ambitions were thus dashed in defeat. He was offered the second place on the ticket, but declined to accept it. With his spoon died the popularity of what is probably the most famous political campaign song in American history—"You Got to Quit Kickin' My Dawg Around." Everywhere that a Clark banner had been raised this whimsical refrain had stirred the souls of voters regardless of their sentiments.

After the nomination he took

PROBERS GET PAPERS TODAY

Copies of All Documents Bearing on Foreign Loans.

HOUSTON COMPLIES WITH A DEMAND

Secretary Declares He Wishes To Cooperate with Committee in Its Work.

Washington, March 2.—Photostatic copies of all official documents and other papers bearing on foreign loans and other commitments were delivered to the senate judiciary committee, today, by the treasury department. The documents, filled six large wooden boxes which conveyed to the capitol in a truck, were piled on one side of the committee room.

The committee agreed to place the boxes and their contents in the custody of the sergeant-at-arms of the senate and to ask the senate for authorization to continue its investigation of the foreign loan situation during the approaching recess of congress.

Nicholas Kelly, assistant secretary of the treasury, in charge of the foreign-loan division, who accompanied the boxes of papers to the committee room, explained that the originals were still in the possession of the treasury department.

Delivery of the photostatic copies was made in compliance with a resolution adopted unanimously by the committee, which "directed" Secretary of the Treasury Houston to furnish the committee with all documents involving financial transaction actions between the treasury department and foreign governments.

Similar photostatic copies were in possession of the state department. He and Secretary Houston, while they still remained in office, desired to cooperate with the committee in pursuing its examination of all documentary evidence of foreign loans and other commitments.

"We desire to play fair with the committee," Kelley said.

Measure Blocked.

Washington, March 2.—Consideration of the bill reported by the senate judiciary committee providing that federal judges shall engage in no other occupation, was blocked in the senate, today, by Senator Poindexter, Republican, of Washington.

The bill was aimed at Judge Landis, of Chicago.

FAIR AND COLD FOR INAUGURATION DAY

Special Weather Forecast by Federal Bureau Today.

Washington, March 2.—Cold and probably fair weather for inauguration day in Washington, was predicted by the weather bureau, today, in a special forecast.

For Next Congress.

Washington, March 2.—Impeachment charges against Judge K. M. Landis, of Chicago, were, today, considered by the house judiciary committee and the decision reached that the charges should be acted upon by the next congress.

MANDATE NOTE IS MADE PUBLIC

United States Invited To Join in Discussions.

MAY PARTICIPATE IN COUNCIL MEETING

When League of Nations Council Meets Again.

Note from League of Nations Is Also Received—Both Notes Are Conciliatory, Officials Announce This Morning.

Washington, March 2—The league-of-nations note to the United States, received today, in effect offers to reopen the question of mandates and invites the United States to participate in the final meeting of the council of the league of nations when mandates are discussed, the state department announced today.

Under Secretary of State Davis indicated that the note would be left to the next administration for decision.

An Invitation.

Paris, March 2.—The United States is invited to participate in the next meeting of the league-of-nations council to discuss mandates in the league's reply to the American mandate note was made public here, today. The note points out that the United States was one of the leading participants in the war and peace negotiations, but that America must recognize the fact that the situation has been complicated by the fact that the United States has not ratified the treaty, nor joined the league of nations.

State department officials said that both notes were "satisfactory." The texts of the league-of-nations note will be made public later, today.

Paris despatches, which stated that the league note was conciliatory and that it asked the United States to negotiate further and stated that the question of mandates had been decided by the supreme council, were said by the state department to be fairly accurate.

Officials of the state department said the notes left this government in an excellent position for the new administration to carry on the negotiations.

PRESIDENT WILSON WISHES TO ATTEND

Wants To See President-Elect Take Oath of Office.

Washington, March 2.—President Wilson has expressed a desire to be present when President-Elect Harding is sworn in and delivers his inaugural address in the open air at the capitol, Friday, it was stated at the White House, today. Whether the president goes through with this plan depends upon the weather and the conditions at the capitol.

After the inaugural, the president will go directly to his new home and in deference to the wishes of Democratic senators, it is expected that he will hold an informal reception for Democratic leaders there.

OHIO CLERGYMEN MEET IN COLUMBUS

Gathering Under Direction of Federation of Churches.

Columbus, March 2.—Denominational sessions were attended, this morning, by the 500 Ohio clergymen who are taking part in the state convention of evangelism, being held here under direction of the Ohio Federation of Churches.

The program for this afternoon and tonight calls for addresses by Rev. John L. Forte, Louisville; Rev. F. L. Fagley, New York; Rev. Jesse M. Bader, St. Louis; Dr. W. O. Thompson, president Ohio State university and president of the Ohio Federation of Churches and Rev. James M. Taylor, New York.

Albert B. Fall, of New Mexico, will hold the interior portfolio in the cabinet of President Harding.

JAP RELATIONS ARE DISCUSSED

Secret Session is Held by the Senate.

NAVAL APPROPRIATION MEASURE TAKEN UP

Amendment Calling for Conference on Disarmament Is Given Approval.

Washington, March 2.—By unanimous vote, fifty-eight senators answering the roll, the senate attached as an amendment to the naval appropriations bill a section calling upon the president to call a conference of the United States, Japan and Great Britian to consider naval disarmament. The proposition originally presented by Senator Borah was put before the senate under unanimous consent agreement by Senator Edge, and the vote was taken upon his amendment.

The senate discussed relations between the United States and Japan for two hours behind closed doors, but the situation as presented by Republican leaders failed to shake opposition to the naval appropriation bill.

After the doors were opened Senator Borah and other leaders in the fight against the bill declared emphatically that the measure in its present form could not be passed before congress adjourned Friday.

Senator Lodge was said to have told the senate in secret session that in view of the present controversies with Japan and the position of the United States in world affairs, this country should continue its naval building campaign. He also was reported to have emphasized the desirability of advising Japan that the United States was ready to spend millions of dollars to protect its interests in the Pacific. President-Elect Harding also was understood to have been quoted as advocating an adequate navy.

Demand for a thorough investigation by the next congress of impeachment charges against Federal Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis was made by five members of the house judiciary committee, who had been directed by the full committee to submit a preliminary report for immediate consideration. Although the subcommittee members declined to indicate the nature of the report, it is known to be outspoken in opposition to the action of Judge Landis in accepting a salary of $42,500 a year from organized baseball to act as its supreme arbiter while serving on the bench.

PLAN TO SEND BRITISH FLEET

To Enforce Demands for German Indemnity.

PREMIERS TO GET RECOMMENDATION

That Drastic Steps Be Taken Toward Germany.

Supreme Council of League of Nations Meets at the Official Residence of Premier Lloyd George Over in London.

London, March 2.—A decision was reached, this afternoon, to recommend to the allied premiers that a British fleet be sent to Hamburg, Germany, as a part of the plan in force Germany to meet the allied indemnity demands. Announcement was made that the recommendation would be made to the premiers, when the supreme council met, at 5 o'clock, at Premier Lloyd George's official residence, at No. 10 Downing street.

An Agreement.

London, March 2.—The allied supreme council was reported this afternoon to have agreed upon occupation of the Rhine bridgeheads, as a first step in the new military and economic pressure to compel Germany to meet the allies' demand for 226,000,000,000 gold marks indemnity.

Report Submitted.

London, March 2.—A report on the military operations necessary to compel Germany to meet the allies' demand for 226,000,000,000 gold marks — 226,000,000,000 — indemnity, was delivered to the allied premiers by the military chiefs at St. James palace, at noon.

Following the meeting it was announced that separate statements had been made by Marshal Foch and by Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson, chief of the imperial general staff. When the meeting broke up, at 1:30 o'clock, the discussions were not completed and another session was set for 5 o'clock, at the British premier's official residence, No. 10 Downing street, Premier Lloyd George, of England; Premier Briand, of France, and Marshal Foch, drove to Buckingham palace, where they had luncheon with King George.

To Stand Pat.

London, March 2.—The German delegation attending the indemnity conference has been ordered by the Berlin government to stand pat upon the counter-proposals tendered, yesterday—that Germany's future reparations be cut down to 30,000,000,000 gold marks—$7,500,000,000.

Announcement to this effect was made, this morning by the German delegation.

Dr. Walter Simons, the German foreign minister and head of the German delegation, was in direct telegraph communication with the German government and his new instructions were received during the course of these conversations.

Members of the German delegation said that they would inform the allies, tomorrow, that they can not consider any alteration of the amount of indemnity which Germany proposes to pay. The Germans said that they took the position that only changes in the method of payment could be discussed.

The allies had demanded 226,000,000,000 gold marks—$56,500,000,000—and a tax of twelve per cent. upon German exports.

There were rumors that the allies had prepared a sharp answer to the German counter-proposals, amounting virtually to an ultimatum. The proposals which have been considered to compel Germany to pay in full were understood to have included the following:

Proposals.

1—Indefinite occupation of the left bank of the Rhine.

2—Seizure of the German coal fields.

3—Occupation of the German ports on the Rhine's right bank.

4—Erection of a Rhine "customs wall."

5—Seizure of German customs as a last resort.

The climax of the critical situation into which the conference has been

PRESIDENT-ELECT MAKES ANNOUNCEMENT

Labor Secretary Yet To Be Announced—General Wood Returns to Chicago.

Three additional cabinet selections—interior, treasury and the postmaster generalship—were confirmed by President-Elect W. G. Harding Tuesday afternoon, leaving only one vacancy to be filled in the cabinet of the next administration, that of labor.

Mr. Harding announced that he had sent a telegram yesterday to Senator Albert B. Fall, of New Mexico, nominating him for the portfolio of interior and asking him to arrange his affairs to go with the next administration. A similar telegram in regard to the postmaster generalship also was dispatched by the president-elect to Will H. Hays, of Indiana, chairman of the Republican National committee.

"Mac Gone There."

President-Elect Harding also stated that the appointment of Andrew W. Mellon, of Pittsburgh, as secretary of the treasury, also may be announced as having been decided upon. Mr. Harding stated he had asked Mr. Mellon to accept and if he could do so to go to Washington for a confidential conference. "I see he has gone there," the president-elect added.

It was stated by Mr. Harding that he wished to give the appointment of secretary of labor, the last post to be filled, as a separate announcement. It is possible that announcement of this appointment will be made before the president-elect leaves tonight for Washington for the inauguration.

Returns to Chicago.

Major General Leonard Wood came to Marion from Chicago Tuesday evening and held a conference with President-Elect Harding regarding the governor generalship of the Philippine islands.

Mr. Harding announced yesterday afternoon that he had tendered the appointment to the general and expressed the wish that he would accept.

General Wood returned to Chicago last night without making any announcement, indicating that he will make his announcement in Chicago.

The ex-speaker's wife, son, Bennett Clark and daughter, Mrs. James Thompson, of New Orleans, were at his bedside when the end came. The members of his family had been summoned here in the latter part of last week, but it was not until yesterday that all hope for recovery of the former speaker was given up by his physicians.

But for the two-thirds rule of the Baltimore convention Champ Clark would have been the Democratic nominee for president of the United States instead of Woodrow Wilson in 1912. And looking back on the campaign, political writers agree that the nomination would have, in all probability, meant his election with all that such a victory meant in such a tremendous period of American history in place of his New Jersey rival.

For twenty-seven ballots in that historic convention Champ Clark held a commanding lead and for nine of these had a clean majority of the convention votes. Then came the ramous "Wall Street" special of William J. Bryan which turned the tide and resulted—after a deadlock of more than a week—in the selection of Wilson. Bryan insisted that August Belmont, Charles F. Murphy, Thomas F. Ryan and other representatives of "the interests" were supporting the Missourian, and although Clark's supporters pointed out that none of the New Yorkers were for their candidate as a first choice the effect of the attack could not be overcome.

Was Bitter Disappointment.

Friends agreed that it was the bitterest disappointment of Champ Clarke's eventful life when his hopes of attaining the goal of his political ambitions were thus dashed in defeat. He was offered the second place on the ticket, but declined to accept it. With his boom died the popularity of what is probably the most famous political campaign song in American history—"You Got to Quit Kickin' My Dawg Around." Everywhere that a Clark banner had been raised this whimsical refrain had stirred the souls of voters regardless of their sentiments.

After the nomination he took

PROBERS GET PAPERS TODAY

Copies of All Documents Bearing on Foreign Loans.

HOUSTON COMPLIES WITH A DEMAND

Secretary Declares He Wishes To Cooperate with Committee in its Work.

Washington, March 2.—Photostatic copies of all official documents and other papers bearing on foreign loans and other commitments were delivered to the senate judiciary committee, today, by the treasury department. The documents filled six large wooden boxes which conveyed to the capitol in a truck, were piled on one side of the committee room.

The committee agreed to place the boxes and their contents in the custody of the sergeant-at-arms of the senate and to ask the senate for authorization to continue its investigation of the foreign loan situation during the approaching recess of congress.

Nicholas Kelly, assistant secretary of the treasury, in charge of the foreign-loan division, who accompanied the boxes of papers to the committee room, explained that the originals were still in the possession of the treasury department.

Delivery of the photostatic copies was made in compliance with a resolution adopted unanimously by the committee, which "directed" Secretary of the Treasury Houston to furnish the committee with all documents involving financial transaction actions between the treasury department and foreign governments.

Similar photostatic copies were in possession of the state department. He and Secretary Houston, while they still remained in office, desired to cooperate with the committee in pursuing its examination of all documentary evidence of foreign loans and other commitments.

"We desire to play fair with the committee," Kelley said.

Measure Blocked.

Washington, March 2.—Consideration of the bill reported by the senate judiciary committee providing that federal judges shall engage in no other occupation, was blocked in the senate, today, by Senator Poindexter, Republican, of Washington.

The bill was aimed at Judge Landis, of Chicago.

MANDATE NOTE IS MADE PUBLIC

United States Invited To Join in Discussions.

When League of Nations Council Meets Again.

Note from League of Nations Is Also Received—Both Notes Are Conciliatory, Officials Announce This Morning.

Washington, March 2—The league-of-nations note to the United States, received today, in effect offers to reopen the question of mandates and invites the United States to participate in the next meeting of the council of the league of nations when mandates are discussed, the state department announced today.

Under Secretary of State Davis indicated that the note would be left to the next administration for decision.

An Invitation.

Paris, March 2.—The United States is invited to participate in the next meeting of the league-of-nations council to discuss mandates in the league's reply to the American mandate note was made public here, today. The note points out that the United States was one of the leading participants in the war and peace negotiations, but that America must recognise the fact that the situation has been complicated by the fact that the United States has not ratified the treaty, nor joined the league of nations.

State department officials said that both notes were "satisfactory." The text of the league-of-nations note will be made public later, today.

Paris despatches, which stated that the league note was conciliatory and that it asked the United States to negotiate further and stated that the question of mandates had been decided by the supreme council, were said by the state department to be fairly accurate.

Officials of the state department said the notes left this government in an excellent position for the new administration to carry on the negotiations.

PRESIDENT WILSON WISHES TO ATTEND

Wants To See President-Elect Take Oath of Office.

Washington, March 2.—President Wilson has expressed a desire to be present when President-Elect Harding is sworn in and delivers his inaugural address in the open air at the capitol, Friday, it was stated at the White House, today. Whether the president goes through with this plan depends upon the weather and the conditions at the capitol.

After the inaugural, the president will go directly to his new home and in deference to the wishes of Democratic senators, it is expected that he will hold an informal reception for Democratic leaders there.

OHIO CLERGYMEN MEET IN COLUMBUS

Gathering Under Direction of Federation of Churches.

Columbus, March 2.—Denominational sessions were attended, this morning, by the 1500 Ohio clergymen who are taking part in the state convention of evangelism, being held here under direction of the Ohio Federation of Churches.

The program for this afternoon and tonight calls for addresses by Rev. John L. Forte, Louisville; Rev. F. L. Fagley, New York; Rev. Jesse M. Bader, St. Louis; Dr. W. O. Thompson, president Ohio State university and president of the Ohio Federation of Churches and Rev. James M. Taylor, New York.

JAP RELATIONS ARE DISCUSSED

Secret Session Is Held by the Senate.

NAVAL APPROPRIATION MEASURE TAKEN UP

Amendment Calling for Conference on Disarmament Is Given Approval.

Washington, March 2.—By unanimous vote, fifty-eight senators answering the roll, the senate attached as an amendment to the naval appropriations bill a section calling upon the president to call a conference of the United States, Japan and Great Britian to consider naval disarmament. The proposition originally presented by Senator Borah was put before the senate under unanimous consent agreement by Senator Edge, and the vote was taken upon his amendment.

The senate discussed relations between the United States and Japan for two hours behind closed doors, but the situation as presented by Republican leaders failed to shake opposition to the naval appropriation bill.

After the doors were opened Senator Borah and other leaders in the fight against the bill declared emphatically that the measure in its present form could not be passed before congress adjourned Friday.

Senator Lodge was said to have told the senate in secret session that in view of the present controversies with Japan and the position of the United States in world affairs, this country should continue its naval building campaign. He also was reported to have emphasized the desirability of advising Japan that the United States was ready to spend millions of dollars to protect its interests in the Pacific. President-Elect Harding also was understood to have been quoted as advocating an adequate navy.

Demand for a thorough investigation by the next congress of impeachment charges against Federal Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis was made by five members of the house judiciary committee, who had been directed by the full committee to submit a preliminary report for immediate consideration. Although the subcommittee members declined to indicate the nature of the report, it is known to be outspoken in opposition to the action of Judge Landis in accepting a salary of $42,500 a year from organized baseball to act as its supreme arbitor while serving on the bench.

To Enforce Demands for German Indemnity.

PREMIERS TO GET RECOMMENDATION

That Drastic Steps Be Taken Toward Germans.

Supreme Council of League of Nations Meets at the Official Residence of Premier Lloyd George Over in London.

London, March 2.—A decision was reached, this afternoon, to recommend to the allied premiers that a British fleet be sent to Hamburg, Germany, as a part of the plan to force Germany to meet the allied indemnity demands. Announcement was made that the recommendation would be made to the premiers. When the supreme council met, at 5 o'clock, at Premier Lloyd George's official residence, at No. 10 Downing street,

An Agreement.

London, March 2.—The allied supreme council was reported this afternoon to have agreed upon occupation of the Rhine bridgeheads, as a first step in the new military and economic pressure to compel Germany to meet the allies' demand for 226,000,000,000 gold marks indemnity.

Reports Submitted.

London, March 2.—A report on the military operations necessary to compel Germany to meet the allies' demand for 226,000,000,000 gold marks — $56,500,000,000 — indemnity, was delivered to the allied premiers by the military chiefs at St. James palace, at noon.

Following the meeting it was announced that separate statements had been made by Marshal Foch and by Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson, chief of the imperial general staff. When the meeting broke up, at 1:30 o'clock, the discussions were not completed and another session was set for 5 o'clock, at the British premier's official residence, No. 10 Downing street. Premier Lloyd George, of England; Premier Briand, of France, and Marshal Foch, drove to Buckingham palace, where they had luncheon with King George.

To Stand Pat.

London, March 2.—The German delegation attending the indemnity conference has been ordered by the Berlin government to stand pat upon the counter-proposals tendered, yesterday—that Germanys future reparations be cut down to 30,000,000,000 gold marks—$7,500,000,000.

Announcement to this effect was made, this morning by the German delegation.

Dr. Walter Simons, the German foreign minister and head of the German delegation, was in direct telegraph communication with the German government and his new instructions were received during the course of these conversations.

Members of the German delegation said that they would inform the allies, tomorrow, that they can not consider any alteration of the amount of indemnity which Germany proposes to pay. The Germans said that they took the position that only changes in the method of payment could be discussed.

The allies had demanded 226,000,000,000 gold marks—$56,500,000,000—and a tax of twelve per cent. upon German exports.

There were rumors that the allies had prepared a sharp answer to the German counter-proposals, amounting virtually to an ultimatum. The proposals which have been considered to compel Germany to pay in full were understood to have included the following:

Proposals.

1—Indefinite occupation of the left bank of the Rhine.

2—Seizure of the German coal fields.

3—Occupation of the German ports on the Rhine's right bank.

4—Erection of a Rhine "customs wall."

5—Seizure of German customs as a last resort.

PRESIDENT-ELECT MAKES ANNOUNCEMENT

Labor Secretary Yet To Be Announced—General Wood Returns to Chicago.

Three additional cabinet selections—interior, treasury and the postmaster generalship—were confirmed by President-Elect W. G. Harding Tuesday afternoon, leaving only one vacancy to be filled in the cabinet of the next administration, that of labor.

Mr. Harding announced that he had sent a telegram yesterday to Senator Albert B. Fall, of New Mexico, nominating him for the portfolio of interior and asking him to arrange his affairs to go with the next administration. A similar telegram in regard to the postmaster generalship also was dispatched by the president-elect to Will H. Hays, of Indiana, chairman of the Republican National committee.

"Has Gone There."

President-Elect Harding also stated that the appointment of Andrew W. Mellon, of Pittsburgh, as secretary of the treasury, also may be announced as having been decided upon. Mr. Harding stated he had asked Mr. Mellon to accept and if he could do so to go to Washington for a confidential conference. "I see he has gone there," the president-elect added.

It was stated by Mr. Harding that he wished to give the appointment of secretary of labor, the last post to be filled, as a separate announcement. It is possible that announcement of this appointment will be made before the president-elect leaves tonight for Washington for the inauguration.

Returns to Chicago.

Major General Leonard Wood came to Marion from Chicago Tuesday evening and held a conference with President-Elect Harding regarding the governor generalship of the Philippine Islands.

Mr. Harding announced yesterday afternoon that he had tendered the appointment to the general and expressed the wish that he would accept.

General Wood returned to Chicago last night without making any announcement, indicating that he will make his announcement in Chicago.

HEARING WILL BE BEGUN SOON

Dunn Bill Is Sent to a House Committee.

REORGANIZATION OF DEPARTMENTS SOUGHT

Nine Directorships and Three Commissions Provided for in Reorganiztion Measure.

Columbus, March 2.—Public hearings are to be started, next week, on the Dunn bill providing for reorganization of state departments by combining them into nine directorships and three commissions. Suspending the rules, the house referred the measure to the committee on reorganization of state departments, Representative Dunn, Wood county, Republican, who introduced the bill, is chairman of the house reorganization committee.

As introduced, the bill consists of forty-eight typewritten pages. It was ordered printed and will be distributed among legislators and interested Ohioans, as soon as possible.

As introduced the bill does not bear the emergency clause, barring a referendum, but names July 1 as the date when it is to be effective. Dunn said he favored making it an emergency. Other legislative leaders similarly declared themselves thus.

The general scheme of reorganization provided in the bill is essentially as outlined in the tentative program announced by the governor last week. Nine state departments are created, each headed by a director and divided into twenty-three subdepartments or divisions, and abolition or merger into these of existing independent state departments. According to a statement issued by the governor it reduces the number of supervisory officers from fifty-six to thirty-two and their aggregate salaries from $200,000 to $150,000.

"The bill would give Ohio not only a thoroughly modern system, instead of its present obsolete governmental machinery, but would assure to Ohioans maximum economy and service in state affairs at absolute minimum cost," the governor said.

PLANS OF PACKERS ARE NOT APPROVED

District of Columbia Supreme Court Gives Decision.

Washington, March 2.—Justice Stafford, of the supreme court of the District of Columbia, handed down a decision, today, failing to approve the plans submitted by Armour & Company and Swift & Company, Chicago packers, for disposing of their holdings, stockyard terminals and market newspaper enterprises. Thirty days was allowed those firms to present testimony as to the value of their holdings.

At the end of that time, the decision provides that they will be given an opportunity to sell their terminal holdings at the price then fixed, or trustees will be named as asked by the department of justice. justice.

Wooster, March 2.—The bank of Dalton, about eight miles east of here, was entered by robbers last night and the contents of 100 safe-deposit boxes in the bank vaults stolen. The loss is not known and can not be until patrons have checked up with bank officials.

An effort was made to force the safe, containing a large sum in coin and currency, but it was unsuccessful.

A strange automobile was seen parked in the outskirts of the village late last night, and it is supposed that the robbers used it in making their escape.

OIL STOCK SEQUELAE; EIGHT ACTIONS TAKEN

Seek To Compel Payment of Brough Subscriptions.

JOHN BALDAUF FILES SUIT IN FORECLOSURE

Mrs. Stanislow Civonkala, Seeking Divorce, Charges Abandonment—Court News.

Hoke W. Donithen, as receiver of the Brough Oil & Gas company, this morning filed in the common pleas court seven separate suits against subscribers of stock in the company to compel them to pay their subscriptions, which range from $100 to $200 each. The suits name E. C. Schroeter, R. H. Waggoner, J. A. Makeever, Ebor L. Smith, Howard Elster, C. C. Brown, C. A. Klunk and R. E. Munsinger, defendants.

The petition represents that the company was incorporated February 21, 1917 with a capital stock of $40,000, divided into 400 shares of $10 each. Mr. Donithen was appointed receiver April 17, 1919.

It is also alleged that the stock was subscribed in 1917 with the agreement of the subscribers to pay ten per cent. at the time of the subscription and the balance as required by the board of directors. The petition also states no call for the balance of the money was made before the company went into the receivership.

Suit in Foreclosure.

John Baldauf, through Hoke W. Donithen, this morning filed in the common pleas court a foreclosure suit against Arthur Stratton, Ella Stratton and The Peoples' Building, Savings & Loan company.

The plaintiff represents due him $1,961.63 on five notes, dated February 14, 1920 and secured by a mortgage on thirty-one and one-half acres in Richland and Waldo townships. He also states the loan company claims an interest in the premises and he asks that the company be required to set up its interest, that the premises be sold and he be given a judgment for the amount of the notes.

Answer and Cross-Petition.

The answer and cross-petition of the defendants was filed this morning in the suit of the Weideman company against John St. Clair and John Sakol, partners doing business under the firm name of St. Clair and Sakol. The company is suing for $444.75 alleged due them for goods delivered in November.

Admission that the merchandise was received and paid for, excepting $304.75 for Bosaks Horke Vino and $140 for Jamaica ginger is contained in the answer, which sets up a general denial of all the other allegations, including the claim of the plaintiff that the defendants owe $444.75.

In the cross-petition the defendants ask judgment in the sum of $900 against the plaintiff, alleging the Vino and Jamaica ginger sold them was represented by the company as non-intoxicating and could not be used for beverage purposes. They also state the merchandise was delivered to their restaurant and confiscated by the police before it could be opened. The merchandise was confiscated December 4 by the police and fines of $900 assessed against the defendants and employes in Mayor T. E. Andrews' court.

Wife Seeks Divorce.

Pauline Cwonkala, through Justice, Young & Mouser, today filed in the common pleas court suit for divorce from Stanislow Cwonkala.

The petition states they were married in New York City April 12, 1913, and have one child, Adelle, aged seven years. The plaintiff charges the defendant with drinking and abusing and beating her and alleges this conduct was continuous from their marriage until the defendant abandoned her in New York City November 10, 1919. She asks for divorce custody of the child and that the defendant be barred from any interest in her property.

AN EXPERIMENT IN OPERATIONS

Toledo Trying Out New Street Car Plan.

SEEKING TO AVOID TROUBLES OF PAST

Fares Reduced and Marked Increase in Traffic Is Noted at Once.

Toledo, March 2.—Ultimate municipal ownership of the city car lines and rolling stock is the aim of the experiment now being conducted by Toledo, and which is being watched with interest by other cities all over the United States.

Under the Toledo plan, which has borrowed many of its features from the so-called "Tayler" grant, under which Cleveland car lines are operated, car riders receive service at cost. The point at which the two plans differ most vitally, however, is the provision whereby ultimate ownership of the lines is vested in the city, under the Toledo plan, through the establishment of a fund consisting of one-twentieth of every cent paid in carfares, which is used for the extinguishment of the bonds.

The Community Traction company, a city-controlled corporation, has taken over all the interest of the Toledo Rail-Light company in the car lines, issuing in payment therefor its bonds, which are guaranteed principal and interest by the city. The price at which the lines were purchased was fixed by a board of arbitration.

Reduce Carfares.

The first act of the new company, which began operation of the lines the first of the month, was to reduce the rate of fare charged from seven cents to six cents and to reduce the charge for transfers from two cents to one cent. W. E. Cann, newly appointed traction commissioner for the city, estimates that the reduction in fares saves car riders $2,000 daily, besides paying $600 each and every day toward ultimate ownership of the lines by the people themselves.

There has been, officials say, a marked increase in traffic since the change in ownership. Under the old regime, with fares at seven cents, with a two-cent charge for transfers, "jitney" lines to many parts of the city thrived, but with the advent of lower fares and the feeling of ownership that the new plan has inspired in Toledoans, a marked reduction in this diversion of traffic is reported.

A "barometer" has been established which will automatically determine the rate of fare to be charged. This "barometer" is a "stabilizing fund" of $400,000 with which the Community Traction company began business. When the "barometer" falls below $300,000 fares will automatically be raised, and if the fund should at any time exceed $500,000 the people immediately receive the benefit in the way of a decreased rate of fare.

The Community Traction company is a temporary expedient only, and the aim of city and company officials is complete and undisputed municipal ownership of the lines, paid for gradually by the car riders themselves.

Much Friction in Past.

Toledo has for many years been the storm center of battles over rates of fare and service given by the traction company. Starting back in the days of "Golden Rule" Jones, who served as mayor of Toledo until his death, some fifteen years ago, one administration after another has tackled the problem, only to get the city and traction officials further apart.

A little over a year ago the officials of the Toledo Rail-Light company, failing to secure what they thought was an advantageous agreement with the city, ran all their city cars to a point in Michigan, and for weeks every one was compelled to walk or use some other conveyance to reach factory, workshop or office.

Under the succeeding administrations of Brand Whitlock, later minister and now ambassador to Belgium, and his successor, Cornell Schrieber, the present mayor, relations between the city and its principal public service corporation went from bad to worse. Traction officials refused to extend service to points where the immense growth of the city indicated the need, asserting that regulatory acts upon the part of the city and constant interference with its service made such action impossible.

The present plan, which thus far has worked satisfactorily, has the support of all factions. Owners of Rail-Light stock express themselves as well satisfied to be rid of the burden, and the reduction in fares, as well as improvements in service, have secured general public support.

LIBERTY BONDS ARE FOUND IN NEW YORK

Believed Part of Loot Secured in Toledo Postoffice.

New York, March 2.—Two men were detained for questioning here after the police claimed to have picked up in this city ten $1,000 liberty bonds that formed part of the $1,000,000 loot taken in the recent holdup of the Toledo postoffice. One of the pair, who gave his name as Frank Miller of Ridgewood, Long Island, was alleged to have offered two of the bonds at a money exchange establishment on East Sixty-eighth street. According to the police he said he found the bonds on the street near Brooklyn bridge.

Detective Skelly of the East Sixty-seventh street station happened to be in the bond dealer's office when Miller entered. Dissatisfied with Miller's answers to several of his questions, he took him and a companion giving the name of Joseph Fisher of this city to the station house for further examination.

FOR VIOLATING THE ANTI-TRUST ACT

Hundred Corporations and Individual Are Indicted.

New York, March 2.—Indictments were handed down by the special federal grand jury investigating an alleged "building material combine" against 75 corporations and 42 individuals, comprising an alleged "cement trust." The indictments contained two counts charging violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, one alleging combination in restraint of trade, and the other monopolies and attempts to monopolize.

Among the corporations named are the Alpha Portland Cement company, the Atlas Portland Cement company, the Lehigh Portland Cement company, the Atlas Cement Securities company, the Giant Portland Cement company and the Universal Portland Cement company.

CARRIES TOTAL OF $10,633,102,422

Gain of $1,030,948,768 Over Last Year—Reasons for the Boost in Taxes.

Columbus, March 2.—Ohio's new grand tax duplicate aggregates $10,633,102,422, a gain of $1,030,948,768 over last year, according to announcement made, today, by the state tax commission.

This is a gain of nearly eleven per cent., the biggest increase of any year since the tax commission was created, in 1910.

The average tax rate in Ohio is 19.315 mills, an increase of 3.975 mills over last year. State taxing officials say this is due to the action of the last state legislature authorizing a 2.8 mills tax levy for school purposes and a tax of .5 mills for highway improvement.

Taxes for the current year, it is said, will total $205,386,500, an increase of $38,011,593 over the past year.

ENDORSEMENT REFUSED TODAY

Graham Committee Turns Down a Report.

REPORT CONDEMNS ARMY COMMANDER

Criticizes Action on Armistice Day—House Stands for an Army of 150,000.

Washington, March 2.—The Graham committee of the house, which investigated war expenditures, today refused to endorse a report of the sub committee, headed by Representative Johnson, of South Dakota, which criticised fighting by the American army on Armistice day.

The Graham committee is considering a special report condemning the sub-committee for its criticism of the command of the army and navy on Armistice day. The committee held that it has power only to report on expenditures and not on the conduct of the war, or of the commanding officers.

For Reduced Army.

Washington, March 2.—Standing out for an army of 150,000 men, the house, today, refused to agree with the senate on an army of 175,000 enlisted men.

By a vote of 240 to eighty-one the house insisted on limitation of the army enlisted personnel to 150,000 and instructed its conferees to hold out against the senate's demand for a larger army.

The senate increased the house provision for the army by changing the army appropriation bill. It provided for $18,000,000 for pay for the army to provide for 175,000 men.

HELD OUTRAGEOUS AND MERCENARY

Soldier-Bonus Bill Assailed by Senator.

Washington, March 2.—The soldier bonus bill was attacked by Senator Thomas, Colorado, as "sordid, mercenary, humiliating, outrageous and illegal."

In a minority report presented to the senate as a member of the finance committee, Senator Thomas said the operation of the bill would entail a cost of $3,500,000,000 and result in depreciation of liberty bonds and other securities and a great burden to the taxpayers.

"The country is in no condition to which this bill imposes," he declared.

Senator Thomas praised "the splendid segment of the late American army which disdains to ask for bonuses or compensation." He added: "If the American nation has been preserved from German aggression only to loose the floodgates of its treasury upon its returning soldiery, it is a serious question whether it was worth while to safeguard the country from its enemies only to be plundered by its citizens."

CREW BLAMED FOR WRECK AT PORTER

Engineer and Fireman Charged with Responsibility.

Chicago, March 2.—Henry Schearer, general manager of the Michigan Central lines, announced that the road's investigation had proved that the engineer and fireman of the Michigan Central train were to blame for the wreck at Porter, Ind., Sunday night, in which 37 persons were killed.

Schearer's statement said: "After careful investigation of the facts with all interested employes, and conference with officials just completed, it has been determined that Engineer W. S. Long and Fireman George F. Block, on engine 8306, train No. 20, violated rules and regulations in failing to observe and properly obey signal indications and will be forthwith dismissed from the service."

All of the 37 dead have been identified, and Dr. H. O. Seipel of Valparaiso, the coroner, said he did not think there were any persons missing, because he had no inquiries from relatives.

MISS GLAYS HOWARD VICTIM OF TUBERCULOSIS

Funeral Will Be Held Friday at 2 P. M.

Miss Gladys Howard, aged sixteen years, died at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Maze, No. 926 Kenton avenue, this morning at 6:30 o'clock, from tuberculosis.

Miss Howard was born October 15, 1904, a daughter of Mr and Mrs. Frank Howard. She came here over a year ago from Ironton, and was a member of the Toledo Avenue mission. Her mother, step-father, two step-brothers and two step-sisters Olive, George Elmer and Mary Dell Maze, survive.

The funeral will be held from the home Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. H. H. Livingston officiating. Interment will be made in the Marion cemetery.

MINSTREL SHOW AT LARUE BIG SUCCESS

American Legion Production To Be Repeated.

LaRue, O., March 2.—[Special.]—The minstrel show given by Clarence Philippi Post, No. 101, American legion, played to a good house Tuesday evening in the Knights of Pythias opera-house. The chorus, composed of members of the post, gave excellent support to the end-men, Fred Scott and Ned Schlambs. A feature of the production was the tableaux at the close of the performance when Kathleen Tannyhill, as the goddess of Liberty, unfolded the post colors. Burbaugh's orchestra furnished music for the performance.

The minstrel show will be repeated tonight. The proceeds will be used for the benefit of the post.

Eighteen "Glory Tickets" — Eighteen marriage licenses were issued during the month of February, as against seven divorces granted and one left off the docket for a period of six months. Only four petitions for divorce were filed during the month.

Presented Chapter Pin — Mrs. Warren G. Harding, who was recently admitted to membership in the Captain William Hendricks Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, was Tuesday presented by the local chapter a pin, the official insignia of the society. The presentation of the pin was made through Mrs. F. C. Hughs, vice regent, and Mrs. M. A. Turney, registrar, at the residence of Dr. G. T. Harding.

Marion Girl on Program—At the Hoover Relief fund entertainment recently given at the new auditorium at Los Angeles, California, Eleanor Tennis, of Marion, who is in Los Angeles with her mother and sister for the winter, had a prominent place on the program. The entertainment was given by the movie stars now at Los Angeles. She was introduced by Charles Murray and Bebe Daniels. Others on the program with specialties were Douglas Fairbanks, Charles Ray, Bebe Daniels and her company, and others.

In Honor of Husband—Mrs. Charles Kies, of east George street, entertained at dinner, Tuesday evening in honor of the birthday of her husband. The home was decorated with roses and carnations. Music and games were enjoyed. Mr. Milton Van Buskirk gave a toast in honor of Mr. Kies and presented him a ring of the Order of Eagles, in behalf of the guests. The hostess was assisted in serving by Miss Katherine March.

EARLY ARREST OF BANDITS EXPECTED

Two Men in Custody Expected To Reveal Robbery Facts.

New York, March 2.—Early arrest of bandits who staged a $1,000,000 mail robbery at Toledo, February 17, was looked for, today, by postal inspectors and special detectives for insurance companies, who believe part of the loot was disposed of in the New York bond market. The loot consisted of Liberty bonds and negotiate securities.

Two men under arrest here—Frank Miller, forty-four, a salesman of Ridgewood, Long Island and Joseph Fisher, thirty-five, of Manhattan—are expected to furnish clews to the identity of the men who robbed the Toledo postoffice. Postal officials held three $1,000 Liberty bonds sold here, with numbers corresponding to bonds stolen at Toledo.

Child Is Killed.

Canton, March 2.—William Elder, eight years old, was crushed to death when other school children say he was pushed in front of a street car by two older companions, when they were playing near the school grounds.

J. A Knapp left this morning for Washington to attend the inauguration. He expects to be gone a week.

ALLIES ARE IN AN AGREEMENT

Reach Decision on Penalties for Germany.

STATEMENT ISSUED FROM LONDON TODAY

Towns To Be Occupied and Hamburg To Be Blockaded. A Customs "Frontier".

Paris, March 2.—The allies have agreed upon penalties for Germany in event non-fulfillment of the indemnity demands, which are the occupation of Dortmund and Frankfort and the blockade of Hamburg, according to the following Berlin despatch to La Liberte, this evening:

"One of the sanctions—penalties—is that a Belgian army shall occupy Dortmund. The French, in collaboration with the Belgians, occupy Frankfort and if necessary, Munich, the capital of Bavaria. Hamburg will be blockaded. A 'customs frontier' will be established in the occupied zone. The sanction regarding Munich will be carried out only in event the Germans fail to disarm. The others will be effective immediately, unless Germany supplies a satisfactory compromise on reparations."

SEEKS REVENGE WITH AN AIR GUN

Lorain Youth Shoots at Teacher After Being Expelled.

Lorain, March 2.—Armed with an air rifle and swearing he would get revenge for being "kicked out of school," a ten-year-old schoolboy yesterday afternoon, caused a panic in a schoolroom in the Lincoln school in South Lorain, when he opened a window and shot at his teacher, Miss E. Burich.

The boy, according to Miss Burich, has been expelled from the class because of misconduct and threatened to come back and "get" some one, but little attention was paid to the boy's threats.

Yesterday afternoon, the school children and teacher were thrown into a panic when the little fellow raised a window of the school-room and aiming the air gun at the teacher, fired a shot. The shot fell wide of its mark, however and no damage was done. The boy was turned over to Mrs. John Cobb, probation officer.

ANDREW W. MELLON RESIGNS POSITION

Free To Begin Duties as Secretary of Treasury.

Pittsburgh, March 2.—Andrew W. Mellon, Pittsburgh's foremost banker, is, today, just a plain citizen. He has resigned from every banking and industrial corporation with which he was connected in Pittsburgh, New York and elsewhere. He drew a long breath, free from great business cares, this morning, for the first time in over forty-five years.

The next secretary of the treasury when asked to enumerate the leading problems confronting the new administration, replied:

"There are a great many that are important. I would consider, among the leading problems, reduction of outlays and realization of economies in conduct of the government.

"Readjustment of the system of federal taxation.

"Funding of our war indebtedness.

"Establishment of our policy on the world peace problem.

"Enactment of an equitable tariff measure."

REFUSES TO TESTIFY IN SAN FRANCISCO

Witness in Mooney Case Is Denied Immunity.

San Francisco, March 2.—Investigation by the grand jury into the case of Thomas Mooney, serving a prison sentence after conviction for alleged participation in the Preparedness day bomb explosion here in 1916, has been completed, it was announced. No action was taken. John MacDonald, who came here from New York, where he was reported to have made an affidavit purporting to show his testimony at the Mooney trial was false, is said to have refused to make a statement before the grand jury unless granted immunity in connection with his alleged affidavit. Immunity, it is said, was refused.

WARM ENOUGH TODAY TO GO WITHOUT AN OVERCOAT

Thunder and Lightning Early Today—Who Cares?

Well, well, who would have thought anything like it could have happened?

It thundered and lightened this morning to beat the band.

Today the sky was overcast for the greater part of the day but the weather was ideal.

It was warm and nice, and what more would a feller want at this season of the year?

To the last, Marion had real front porch weather.

pledge of support."

In presenting the plaque Dr. McAfee read the wording on the gift, which was held by J. F. Prendergast, an officer in the Civic association. At the conclusion of the speaking program, President-Elect and Mrs. Harding received their friends and neighbors at the steps of their home to say their goodbyes before leaving this evening for Washington for the inauguration Friday.

Dr. McAfee's speech follows:

Presentation Address.

"President-Elect and Mrs. Warren G. Harding, we congratulate ourselves today for the honor of your presence in our midst. I assure you it is an exalted privilege for me to voice, on behalf of these gathered here, the most sacred bonds of friendship and the tenderest ties of affection. As we look back over the road which you and your esteemed help-mate have traveled, we have an abiding conviction that your lives and achievements will come with a thrill of inspiration to the myriads of youthful folks as they swing out into life's way to travel that path which stretches out into the years before them and that this inspiration will fire them with an indomitable purpose which will not be denied.

"When the news was flashed from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the lakes to the gulf that you were the chosen standard-bearer of one of the great political parties, we laughed and romped like children at play. When the American nation broke the quiet and lifted the suspense of months by a most overwhelming choice for the presidency which convinced opponents and silenced defamers, we were in the ecstasy of jubilation until you called us from the hour of play to the altars of prayer, from the place of exaltation to wait in the precincts of humility.

As Outstanding Man.

"We then saw you as the outstanding man of our generation, a man of love and unselfish friendships.

"Some see the shadows of friendship but follow only afar off and can hear only the echoes of her voice which they do not understand, but we shall walk together as friends in companionship, listening to the unfailing voice of friendship who sits in earth's holy of holies, the divinest of all gifts except the unspeakable gift of God Jesus Christ. Friendship challenges earth's most desirable things—popularity, beauty, honor, education, statesmanship, philosophy and all religions saying, 'Where I am ye can not come.' The greatest tribute which God ever paid to man was that which he gave to Abraham 'the friend of God.'

"We will follow you to our nation's capital; we will rejoice in your achievements; we will rest quietly in the confidence of your wise leadership; we will remember you in your burdens and anxieties; we will not forget you in our prayers that our God may sustain you and, when all is over, we shall receive you in the bosom of our friendship, there to abide, not as the ex-president of this nation, but as Sam Walter Foss' poetical ideal, one 'who lives by the side of the road and is a friend to man.'"

Response by Harding.

In reply Mr. Harding said:

"Dr. McAfee, my friends and neighbors:

"One ought not to trust himself to speak his emotions on an occasion like this. Yet somehow, I feel that if I say the things which are in my heart I can not go far wrong. You know I am grateful. I need not say it. I do not think there can come to a man anything more precious, anything more heartening, than the certified confidence and good esteem of his friends and neighbors. I do not know of anything bigger or better in the world.

"Your expression comes to me notwithstanding the intimacy of our acquaintance, which sometimes destroys confidence and good opinion. I like to think that in the greater part of my life in this community I have done some things which have merited your approval; and I can wish for nothing better than that I may come back to you at the end of my public service with an esteem from our common country measurable to that which you have shown me here at home.

Theory of Government.

"I have a theory of government that if you do for the nation what you do for the community you do exceeding well; because the nation is only the aggregate of communities. So I am going to play my part in the execution of my duties as chief magistrate of the republic just as I would play it as a neighbor and fellow citizen in Marion.

"If I can do that which will add to the spirit of good will; if I can do something to promote good feeling; if I can do that which will increase the confidence of citizenship and reverence for government, I know I will not have served in vain.

"We are looking upon the American republic from a little different viewpoint than ever before. I shall not talk to you concerning it now. I am to make some observations day after tomorrow in an official way and I do not desire to anticipate what I shall say at that time. But I would like to say to you neighbors and friends that I am going to my work with the confidence that all will be well. I believe in the security of this American republic; I believe the heart of American citizenship is right; I believe that the hundred millions of America will be back of a right minded executive just as cordially as you speak your friendship to me here today.

Fullest Confidence.

"Therefore, I look upon the situation with the fullest confidence and I promise you, just as I am ready to promise to America, that I mean to serve in good conscience to the best of my ability. No man can do more. I know that I take office in love of my fellow countrymen. I have made it a practice in my life to speak well of my fellow men and ever do good. I have neither envy nor jealousy in my heart. I feel that I am like the great citizenship of America—there is no hatred there. I should never be prouder in all my experience than to apply this kindly feeling within myself to the inauguration of a spirit of nation-wide good will in this republic.

"I want to go to Washington with your prayers as well as your friendship. Though I may not always be the ideal, I want you to know that in my heart is a reverence for almighty God. I believe that He has His part in directing the destinies of this free people. I want Him to know of our prayers. I want Him to know of our trust in Him, and, trusting in Him and with confidence in ourselves, we need have no concern for the future of this republic.

It Has Been Sweet.

"It has been sweet to have this manifestation of your interest, your friendship and your good will. I speak only the truth when I tell you that Mrs. Harding and I are going from you with a feeling of sorrow, with that unavoidable touch of regret which comes to every man and woman when they leave the community in which they have developed and lived so long. No one can avoid those heart pangs, and we go with a sense of great responsibility that has its effect—its chastening effect—upon any tendency to think in a spirit of pride or superiority. We go as one of you, because the true republic calls to service those of the great common people.

"If I can give expression to the nation that which fills your hearts in this solemn moment I shall have served you and this country well. Surely I have no greater desire than to come back to Marion at the end of a term of service, assured there will be the welcome on return that has the savor of the kindly spirit of today.

"Good luck to you—that is my prayer. Good fortune to our republic—that is our united wish. I hope and pray that on our journeys you will follow us with your good wishes, your assurances of cooperation, and your continued prayers for the welfare of our country.

"I thank you for myself and for Mrs. Harding again and again for this manifestation. It will hearten us more than you can know and you can be sure that this expression of neighborliness and friendship will be an inspiration and an assurance throughout the term of our public service."

plunged by the attitude of the Germans is expected, within forty-eight hours.

The judicial and military advisers of the supreme council are to make a formal report, tomorrow.

A member of the German delegation was quoted as saying:

"If we remain in London beyond Thursday, then the conference will last for at least a fortnight. If permission is given for discussions, then the experts will be called in and they are sure to go into minute details. Moreover, experts always disagree and difficulties thus arise."

To March Direct.

Paris, March 2.—The French military staff has made plans to march directly into Bavaria, if an advance is expected to enforce the payment of German indemnity, it was learned this afternoon. The first military movement, it was said, would ignore the Ruhr valley.

Has No Plans.

Washington, March 2.—There are no plans for participation by the United States troops in any steps the allies may take to force Germany to accept the indemnity terms, it was stated at the state department, today.

The American forces in Germany are here under the terms of the armistice, it was stated and the further use of troops by the allies is a matter which the United States is not at present concerned with.

The question of participation by American troops may be taken up with the incoming administration, it was said.

Mayflower Committee.

Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Williams, of Blaine avenue, entertained the members of the Mayflower club and their husbands Tuesday evening. All the members were present and the guests were Mrs. Walter Porter, of Green Camp and Mr. Harry Solomen. Music and games were enjoyed and the hostess was assisted in serving by Misses Alice Gertrude Smith and Thelma Williams.

At the hearing on compensation and damages for the Lindsay and Crofts road in Claridon township Tuesday afternoon the county commissioners postponed the improvement for one year.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

Loyalty Bible Class.

Miss Alma Church was hostess to the members of the Loyalty Bible class, of the Forest Dawn Presbyterian church, Tuesday afternoon, at her home on east Center street. There were twenty-eight members present. Two new members, Mrs. Bessie Wark and Mrs. Ralph E. Rumbaugh, were enrolled. During the program hour Mrs. W. J. McNeal sang "Good Night, Sweet Dreams," and Mrs. Herbert Whysall contributed the number, "Ah, I Have Sighed To Rest Me," from Il Trovatore. A piano number, "The Great Deep," by Mrs. Willis Bowers was also enjoyed. A social hour followed the program.

At Trinity Church.

There was a large attendance at both the morning and evening services Sunday at Trinity Baptist church. At the close of the evening service Dr. T. H. McAfee gave to Dr. Powell a warm parting address and also presented him a purse of money a parting gift from the members of the church.

Dr. and Mrs. Powell left Monday morning for their home in Mt. Gilead.

At Central Christian.

Rev. Roy L. Brown, of Bellefontaine, preached Tuesday evening at the Central Christian church. There was one accession made last night. Tonight Rev. Mr. Brown will take for his sermon subject, "What Christ Can Do for Marion."

Inasmuch Circle.

The meeting of the Inasmuch circle, King's Daughters, to have been held with Mrs. J. F. Neidhart, Thursday evening, will instead be held with Mrs. Earl Smith, No. 305 Superior street.

Queen Esther Circle.

Mrs. C. T. Schnee and Mrs. William Yocum were hostesses to the members of the Queen Esther circle, of Epworth M. E. church, Tuesday evening, at the Yocum home on Pearl street. "Community Civics" was the subject of a talk given by Miss Wanda Curtis and Miss Anna Parks gave a talk on "Some Successful Churches." Mrs. Frank Sifritt gave an interesting talk on "Finding Ourselves" which was followed by a discussion on "The Scrap Book" by Miss Pauline Ruhl. "They Shall Walk In White" was the subject of a leaflet by Miss Alice Larson. Miss Viola Elbling and Miss Mildred Ruhl each contributed a piano number during the social hour. The circle decided to hold a White Elephant sale in the near future.

At Calvary Church.

Last night's service witnessed more victories at Calvary church. During the after-service eight folks found Christ either in his forgiving or cleansing power. There were not only testimonies of victory but also shouts of victory. There will be service tonight at seven-thirty. A great meeting is expected.

Willing Workers.

The members of the Willing Worker's class, of Fite Memorial Baptist church, met Tuesday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Peach, of Congress street. There was a good attendance and the evening was passed socially.

U. B. Revival.

Plans were made for a two-weeks revival service to begin Sunday evening, March 13, at the monthly meeting of the official board of the First United Brethren church Tuesday evening at the church. It was also decided to hold special Easter services and reception of members Easter Sunday. A special collection with a goal of $1,500 will also be taken Easter. One-third of the collection will be applied on the purchase of a piano, one-third in preparing the community-house which will be open about April 1, and one-third will be reserved as a building fund for a new church.

Nazarene Young People.

The members of the Young People's alliance, of Nazarene church, were entertained Tuesday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Marsonian, of north Prospect street. It was decided to change the meeting night from Tuesday to the first Friday evening of each month. There was a good attendance and a number of visitors were entertained.

As "Holy Man."

Rev. A. E. Russmann, who has just returned from India, will appear in the costume of the "Holy Man" of that country and will lecture on his experiences and travels in India, this evening at 7:30 o'clock at the International Holiness church, corner of Waterloo and York streets.

Wesley Circle No. 1.

Circle No. 1, of Wesley M. E. church, met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Keefer, of Windsor street. The time was passed in sewing and discussing plans for the Easter sale.

National Worker To Speak.

Miss Frances Kallstedt, national field secretary, is expected to attend a regular meeting of the Women's Home Missionary society, of the Epworth M. E. church, Thursday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock, in the Junior room of the church. She will deliver an address. "Community Leadership" will be the subject of a paper by Mrs. J. F. Hurd. "Some Successful Churches" will be the topic discussed by Mrs. S. M. Midgeley. Members of the Wesley society are to be guests.

SOCIETY

Mrs. J. C. Holtshouse, of east Church street, entertained the members of the Buckeye club Tuesday afternoon and a pleasant time was passed with fancy work, and a guessing contest, in which Mrs. W. H. Harbison won the honors. A dinner was served.

The guests were Mrs. R. E. Adams, Mrs. Edward Rudolph and Mrs. M. L. McDaniels.

An all-day sewing will be held in two weeks at the home of Mrs. Holtshouse.

Mrs. H. A. Deardourff, of south Vine street, entertained at five tables of "Five Hundred" Tuesday afternoon for the pleasure of her house guests, Mrs. O. E. Harrison, and Mrs. W. E. Halley, of Columbus, Mrs. Charles Schafer, of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Glenn Evans, of Greenville. Mrs. E. M. Helbig, of Atlanta, Georgia, was an out-of-town guest.

The honors at cards went to Mrs. Howard Mapes. The hostess was assisted in serving dinner by Mrs. J. C. Woods, Mrs. Walter S. McKeon and Mrs. E. H. Cowan.

The Tuesday Night club was entertained at the home of Mrs. Burns Perfect, on south Vine street, Tuesday evening, at "Five Hundred." The honors went to Mrs. John Storms and Mr. J. A. Burgin.

The H. G. L. club met with Miss Nona Bolander, of south Prospect street, Tuesday evening. The time was given to fancy work. Miss Audrey Bolander was a guest.

AN APPEAL MADE FOR SUFFERING ARMENIANS

Under the Signature of Major General Wood.

The following appeal for Armenian relief over the signature of Major General Leonard Wood, from No. 1 Madison avenue, New York City, was received by the Star today:

"As chairman of special committee of representative men and women of the country charged with placing before the American people the desperate need of 2,500,000 Armenians, the remnant of the oldest Christian nation whose sufferings through sixteen centuries seem to have brought them no nearer peace, liberty and security, I beg your personal cooperation and the influence of your newspaper to forward an appeal for a Lenten sacrifice offering to enable the Near East relief to go on with its work of mercy for 100,000 little children, who have been kept alive by American generosity for the past three years. They are absolutely dependent upon the support which America gives them through the Near East relief. I feel that however many and however worthy the other appeals, which are being made to the great heart of America these days may be, this cry from the little children of the land where Christ gave His life for mankind, can not remain unanswered. Will you help to save the martyred people."

OBITUARY

Jones—Colonel Ellsworth, son of Spaulding and Elizibeth Jones, was born at Iberia, Ohio, December 7, 1851. In the year 1882 he was united in marriage to Miss Mira Kennedy, of New Winchester, Ohio. To this union two children were born, one son, Homer E. Jones, residing on the home farm near New Winchester, and one daughter, Mrs. Hollis Pace, of Mansfield, Ohio. There are three grandchildren, Violet and Gladys Jones and Emerson Pace.

On the evening of February 20, 1921, the death angel came quietly into the home and claimed for his victim the husband and father, Mr. Jones had been in failing health for several years past, and for the last two months was confined to his bed.

Those who mourn are the widow and mother, the son and daughter and their families, besides many other relatives and friends.

The funeral service was conducted at the late home by the Rev. C. A. Ricks, of Galion, Ohio, who was a former pastor of Mr. Jones. The Cade male quartet rendered two beautiful numbers. Interment was made in the cemetery at Bucyrus, Ohio.

THE HUB OF COMMERCE.

Daily Proverb—"The word that has escaped thee is thy master, that which you retain thy slave."

There's never any telling. Maybe that North Carolina woman, who refused pardons and remained in prison forty-two years despite the fact that she was proved innocent, disliked housework.

The reformers are seeking legislation against the use of tobacco, but what the smokers want is legislation compelling its use in cigars, cigarets and smoking mixtures.

We note that the cash and securities in the United States treasury total $13,993,819,826.36, but it's just possible that Uncle Sam would be willing to discount the latter ten per cent. for cash.

Off hand, we will say that the Chicago husband being sued for divorce because he makes his wife pay $200 a month and an annual bonus of $1,000 for the privilege of living with him isn't worth it.

GOOD RETURN FOR MONEY PAID.

Newspaper paragraphs linking up death and taxes, with such variations as the ingenuity of the writer suggests, may have had something to do with the resentment so many persons feel toward paying their share for the support of the national and other governments under which they live. Be that as it may, it is certain that many individuals have an idea that they are being imposed upon when they are assessed taxes for the purpose of meeting their own obligations—the expenses of operating the system under which they enjoy the numerous advantages that go to make up the sum total of human civilization.

It will be readily conceded that taxes are always just a little higher than the value of the benefits which accrue from them, but that is a matter which should receive attention before and not after the fact. Whenever a people chooses to engage in dancing it is inevitable that the piper must be paid.

The nation is heavily taxed on account of the World war. It is probable that large sums of money were spent needlessly during the conflict, but it was no time to haggle over prices when our liberties were threatened. Taxes are higher in this country because we did our full part in the war. Advancing costs everywhere have added to domestic taxes, state, county and municipal. It is costing more to operate the public schools, and the administration of county and city governments has almost become a luxury. They are governments of the people, however, and the people should not complain if they are asked to pay for them.

Above all, there is no nation in the world that offers better return for the investment than the United States. Costs are a bit high at present, but the old and well guaranteed freedom and personal privileges are good returns for the money paid in taxes.

"Lookit th' ol' Guffer Givin' Her His Seat"

GOOD-BYE TO THE HARDINGS.

Eight months ago Marion gave to Mr. and Mrs. Harding upon their return home from the Chicago convention just such a plain, simple greeting as they would have chosen had the arrangement of it been left to them—just a greeting by neighbors and friends. That greeting was an expression of felicitation over the selection of a fellow-townsman as candidate of a great political party for the presidency. During the passing months, the presidential candidate has become the president-elect, but today these neighbors and friends, gathered in just the same way to bid good-bye to Mr. and Mrs. Harding as the one leaves to become, two days hence, the chief executive of the nation and the other, the mistress of the White House.

The simplicity that marked the welcome home and that of the leave-taking today alike were not without strong appeal, how strong only those who know Mr. and Mrs. Harding best can fully understand. It is that which has marked the course of Marion from the early days of the pre-primary campaign. Marion's citizenship gave of its time, of its effort and of its means, and gave freely and willingly to promote the campaign of a fellow-townsman. It was a quiet, unostentatious campaign, but a successful one. Marion's candidate became the nominee, and from that time on Marion subordinated all else to the advancement of his cause until victory came to him. Nothing of endeavor was spared to the desired accomplishment.

And now Mr. and Mrs. Harding are going away—going into a life which is high in honor, but correspondingly high in responsibilities and not without its penalties, for in their new relations, they must give up so many of the little, everyday things which go to make life pleasing. The little neighborly and friendly intimacies which charm will be no more for them. All the effort and endeavor, which they in the past have given to and shared with Marion, must be devoted to a wider field. What was centered in a few must be given to the many, and thus it is that our citizenship, while rejoicing in the high honors which have come to Mr. and Mrs. Harding, at the same time possesses a feeling of loss—the loss of that personal intimacy with two who for three decades have devoted so much of their time and energies to the business and social interests of their home town.

ANTI-VACCINATION.

It's pleasing to have one's articles appear in print.

It's more pleasing to learn that they have been read.

It's most pleasing to know that they have made impressions—to receive letters of approbation or criticism.

On February 12 I had an article in this column on "Smallpox and Vaccination." In that article I merely suggested that compulsory vaccination might be advisable, by asking the two questions:

"Shall we not have compulsory vaccination?"

"Does not the greatest good to the greatest number demand it?"

And recently I received a letter courteously taking me to task for my suggestion.

Let me say right here that anti-vaccinationists have a right to their opinions; and that I shall enter into no controversies with them. I think them misinformed, and therefore mistaken; but this fact shall not lead me into controversy with them.

However, I do desire to reply to a few of the statements I find in the courteous letter I have received. The letter is from a minister. And he starts out by saying:

"For years I have read your articles in the Marion Star, with interest."

I'm pleased.

"But the other day I read one that I did not like concerning vaccination."

Still I'm pleased.

"I do not believe in vaccination, nor enforced vaccination."

"The good minister and I simply differ in opinion, that's all, and that's no crime—not even a misdemeanor.

But then my ministerial friend goes on to state:

"I believe in letting people in free America choose the way they wish to doctor."

So do I, friend. But I don't believe persons should be allowed to contract diseases and transmit them to others, at their pleasure. Do you? Compulsory vaccination is not enforced treatment; it's enforced prevention. It is not intended, primarily, for the good of the individual—but for the good of the public.

But then this man proceeds to say:

"Vaccination is superstitious. It has no merit. It injures [illegible] and consumption, and other [illegible]

What I should like to ask is, Where does this good divine get such erroneous information?

However, he continues:

"I believe in compulsory drainage and sewerage, and sanitation, cleanliness everywhere, and compulsory quarantine, but not compulsory doctoring."

I'm not advocating compulsory doctoring, as I've already made plain, and I don't know of anybody that is doing so. However, it's against the law to commit suicide.

Perhaps I believe less in compulsory legislation, forced reform, and prohibitory and compulsory measures, than does my friend, this minister. But I, as does he, apparently, recognize the need of protecting the public. And as long as we say that an individual must not take a drink of wine or a glass of beer, we surely may say that an individual must not peddle smallpox—when both measures are intended for the public good.

The news that America's most perfect girl has just been married may surprise many men, as 9/10 of whom have had the idea that he had married her.—Boston Globe.

Reorganization of the Republican party is also being agitated. Meantime, creditors of both crowds are perhaps waiting anxiously for developments.—Chattanooga News.

HER LOVE

The International Sunday-School Lesson for March 6 Is: "Jesus Among His Friends."—Matthew 26:1-13.

BY WILLIAM T. ELLIS.

Still we study the story of the Hero Who made men marvel and fear and hate and love; and who called forth such sympathetic understanding and passionate devotion from one fine-souled woman that her supreme act of love is one of earth's immortal memories. The mere recital of the facts lifts life to a loftier plane. It is a wonder-tale of love and sympathy and reverence, bracketed between the cowardly intrigues of powerful enemies and the cupidity of a traitor comrade.

Hate's hounds were hot on the trail of Jesus. The aristocrats He had flouted, the commercial interests He had attacked, the ecclesiastics He had scorned, the rabble He had fed and healed, were soon to nail Him to a cross. Only six days of earthly ministry remained to Him. The clamor of the curious crowd, His own courage, and the cowardice of His unsleeping persecutors protected Him for this period; the citadel of the Hero's safety had to be opened from within by a traitor of His own band.

"There was a Man!" The quiet poise of Jesus, as He pursued His accustomed routine of teaching and ministering amid the steadily diminishing circle of doom that surrounded Him, is a heartening spectacle that has made many heroes. He kept His poise to the end. No panic hours may be recorded of the Master's life. Nor was He ever so engrossed with His own fate that He failed to show constant and exquisite appreciation of the position of others. His words concerning Mary's gift were kin to His Garden message to the police concerning the disciples: "Let these go their way."

A Refuge for Soul Storms.

Fuller of meaning than many new books of sociology is the simple fact that in His hour of sorest soul stress, Jesus turned to the shelter and peace of a home. Not to the seclusion of a wilderness dungeon, but to the quiet routine of a normal family life the Master betook Himself when His enemies were fiercest and His lot was most turbulent. In the refuge of friendship He found peace. The homeless Savior accepted the hospitality of His Bethany friends.

On a shoulder of the mount of Olives, just across the brook from Jerusalem, and within walking distance of the city, was the little suburb of Bethany, where Martha and Mary and Lazarus lived. Thither, to the intimacy of this domestic circle, Jesus resorted. His conduct is eloquent with the truth that if those who know and love you best remain steadfast in your hours of trial, all else is endurable.

Everybody owes it to himself, to his friends and to society, to create a real home, which shall be just such a refuge as the Bethany abode. It is fair to ask ourselves whether our homes are so noble in their ideals, so essentially religious in their atmosphere, and so spacious in their hospitality, that the greatest among our friends would turn to them as a congenial place of rest and spirit-strengthening.

Evidently the Bethany home of Jesus was not large enough for a formal feast to the Hero: so it may have been because He had the largest residence in town that Simon, the grateful ex-leper, gave the public banquet in honor of the Lord Who had healed him. Martha was there: wherever there is efficient service to be rendered there the Marthas are also to be found. Lazarus, back from the grave, was a guest to whom all eyes turned. But it was Mary who created the sensation of the dinner.

The Best for the Beloved.

Favored travelers to Mt. Sinai may be honored by a clanging salute from the church bells, and a reverberating blast from the mediaeval cannon on the roof of the monastery; or they may even have brought out to them, from secret recesses, the treasures of the centuries, in jewels and gold and silver and cunning craftsmanship; even to a wonderful cross containing what is shown as a fragment of the true cross on which Jesus died. Only the most highly honored visitor gets to see all this: the best is reserved for the especially favored. The Orient has always shown a fine discrimination in such matters.

Thus it came about that at the feast to Jesus, Mary of Bethany—not Mary Magdalene, who is nowhere recorded as anointing the Lord, though she is often confused with the woman that did so on an earlier occasion, "who was a sinner"—this disciple who best understood the Lord, brought out her richest treasure—perahps a family heritage; perhaps the concentration of all her possessions—and offered it as a token of honor and love to Jesus. Breaking her alabaster jar of pure nard, a precious and sweet-smelling ointment, she sprinkled it upon His head and His feet, so that the fragrance filled all the house of Simon.

That is the way a good woman loves. Her best is for the Beloved. She has a fine sense of spiritual values, and of the worth of sentiment, that transcends mere prudence or logic. There is an economy that wastes life; there is a spend-thriftry that enriches the soul. No price is too high to pay for the spiritual fragrancies of life, the odor of which outlasts the years. More permanent than any memorial of stone or bronze was this lavishness of love which caused the cautious, penny-counting neighbors to cry aloud.

What is there of splendor that the Caesars built that can compare with the memorial of Mary's love, which is today shedding its sweetness over the whole earth, even as it has done throughout the centuries. Nobody ever was sorry for laying the best upon the altar of love and faith.

How To Lift Life's Level.

A supreme and beautiful motive on the part of each person does more to lift up life's level than all the machinery of social service that encumbers the world. To have a passion for Christ, to seek to serve and please Him, is more effective to exalt and glorify character than all possible legislative enactments. There would be no anxious discussion in the press concerning the fashions and morals of women today if more of them could say, with Mary, "The love of Christ constraineth me." An overmastering ambition to honor Him consumes all grosser passions.

Life is best lived by those who live for the best.

As of old, this holy motive inspired Mary, to love's largesse, so today, in less conspicuous ways, there are millions of women whose work for loved ones in the home; whose teaching of Sunday-school children or in public schools; whose activities in church and club and community are all done "as unto the Lord." They live and love and labor for the great end of honoring the Saviour, who is their soul's chief Desire and Friend.

Woman has ever been the priestess at the altar fires of religion and idealism. A profound and universal truth underlies the sneer that women make up the bulk of church members and workers. They do, thank God. Even in the days of His flesh, our Lord was better understood by Mary of Bethany than even by John, the disciple who reclined upon Jesus' breast. As He said, she perceived His approaching sacrifice, and anointed His spirit for life, as well as His body for the burial. The spiritual discernment of woman shines out in all final tests. Mary's act of love is a memorial and a summons to all the world which is following afar off after the Saviour Who still desires and deserves the best.

GARFORD SHOP EMPLOYEE DISCLOSES BIG IMPROVEMENT

Joseph Conners Says "I Believe Nuxite Is the Greatest Tonic on Earth. Nothing I Ever Used Increased Strength So Quickly."

WELL KNOWN LIMA RESIDENT MAKES PUBLIC STATEMENT

Was Troubled with Sour Stomach, Felt Tired, Weak and Nervous Before Taking Nuxite.

"I have used Nuxite myself, and know from the results I got from it, that it is the greatest tonic on earth," says Mr. Conners, who lives at No. 504 Atlantic street, in Lima. Mr. Conners is well-known there, and is a pipe-fitter by trade, being employed at the Garford shops.

"My trouble was caused by a sour stomach," continued Mr. Conners. "I felt tired and weak a great deal of the time and couldn't rest well at night. My appetite was poor and what I did eat didn't seem to give me any strength. Gas formed and caused me to have pains in my stomach after eating. I usually felt worse in the mornings and nearly always had a headache when I got up out of bed. My joints and muscles were sore and stiff and I often had pains across the small of my back, right over the kidneys.

"I began using Nuxite because I had tried nearly every other kind of medicine, and I hope that this new medicine, without getting any real benefit would go after my trouble in a different way from others. I have been taking Nuxite about ten days now and I feel fine. My appetite is splendid. I can't get enough to eat. The soreness in my stomach, back and muscles has gone away and I don't have those tired, weak spells, any more.

"I sleep good at night, and haven't had a headache in over a week. Nuxite has sure proved itself to me and I will always keep a bottle of it on hand. I never gave my recommendation to a medicine before, but know Nuxite will help anybody who feels like I did."

Nuxite to which Mr. Conners refers, is being introduced in Marion at Schmidt & Co. under the supervision of W. R. Cooper, the special Nuxite representative.—Adv.

A DOUBLE CAGE BILL AT ARMORY TONIGHT

Legion and Osgoods and Girls' Outfits.

At a meeting of the local American legion at the armory, Tuesday night, plans were discussed for adding to the building fund. The report of the committee on the show given at the Grand theater, last week, showed that it was a financial success. The original program will be carried out. A boxing show will be held at the armory March 17 under control of the city boxing commission. The main bout will be ten rounds between Miller and McCoy both in the light weight class. There will be two preliminaries of four and six rounds between boxing stars from Columbus and Lima.

The local basket-ball team representing the legion will play its next out-of-town date with Anderson, Indiana.

After the meeting the executive committee let contracts for the boxing show.

The basket-ball fans will be treated to a double bill at the armory this evening. The American legion team will play the Osgood team champions of the Industrial league, and preceding this game there will be a game between two teams of girls. The admission for games with home teams has been fixed at twenty-five cents and with this low price and a double attraction, the armory should be packed with fans tonight.

MRS. GEORGE RHOADS IS DEAD AT EDISON

Her Death Caused by Cancer. Funeral Friday.

Edison, O., March 2.—[Special.]—Mrs. Martha Ann Rhoads, wife of George Rhoads, of this place, died Tuesday night at 11 o'clock following a year's illness of cancer. She was born June 2, 1849, in Muskingum county. She was married December 19, 1876, to Mr. Rhoads. Her maiden name was Clevenger. She was a member of the Bethel M. E. church.

Surviving are the husband one son, William, residing at home, and two brothers, M. B. Clevenger of Edison and Thomas Clevenger of Columbus.

Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Edison M. E. church, and will be in charge of Rev. E. A. Brown. Burial will be made in River Cliff cemetery, Mt. Gilead.

MONTGOMERY GRANGE HEARS COUNTY DEPUTY

After Which Big Island Grange Confers Degrees.

The Montgomery grange met Tuesday evening in the school house at DeCliff, with a large attendance and delegations from Big Island and Tymochtee granges. Seven applications were balloted on and three applications were received.

The grange, although in its infancy, has a membership of seventy-eight. Miss Virgie Heusell was elected organist. Arrangements were made for a special meeting to be held March 8 to work the first and second degree on a class. March 22, Tymochtee grange will work the third and fourth degrees.

County Deputy J. F. Stiverson gave an address, after which Big Island grange worked the first and second degrees on thirty-eight candidates.

Holding A Husband

BY ADELE GARRISON.

Little Mrs. Durkee rushed to Lillian's side and sank on a hassock at her feet.

"I'll tell the world I'm all ears," she said, with the slangy playfulness which does not seem affected in her as it so often does in other women of her years.

Lillian smiled down at the eager little woman, and I saw that her genuine affection for Her Fluffiness was fast obliterating the anger I knew she had felt at my neighbor's selfish short-sightedness in the matter of Leila's room decorations.

"The plan is a very simple one for me," she said deprecatingly. "You see, in my profession, I know more or less intimately, a number of clever women who are interior decorators. There are many occasions when we help each other out of difficulties. I'll telephone the best of them tonight, tell her what we want, and arrange to meet her at 9 o'clock in the morning. You must give me every measurement tonight, and descriptions of everything in here you want duplicated in the rose shades. I'll be back with the things on the noon train. Have your luncheon before I come, just leave a cup of tea and a quick bite for me, and have your sewing machines and scissors all ready for work. Jim will be home by that time, you say, Madge, then he can move your machine over here. We four ought to have everything in here finished long before the bride arrives. What do you say?"

"Say," little Mrs. Durkee chortled. "Say! If I could talk all that I'm thinking, and if every word were a dollar, you'd never have to do another lap of work in your life! But I never could express myself," she added, with a doleful air that set Lillian and me into peals of laughter, for Her Fluffiness is almost a record-holder in the line of sustained and lengthy chatter.

"'Wiping our streaming eyes, we pity you,'" Lillian quoted at last.

Our handkerchiefs were really in use, for our little neighbor's nalvette had suddenly loosened the tension under which we had been laboring, and we had actually laughed until we cried.

"Don't you quote that stuff at me," Mrs. Durkee threatened, "or I won't give you one bit of dinner. Alf thinks Lewis Carroll made the world and then died. I'm sure I don't see anything so funny in him."

"You'll see nothing funny in life," Lillian retorted dryly, "unless you get busy on these rooms. Isn't there something we can do to help you with them? How about your room? Is it ready to put these draperies up?"

Little Mrs. Durkee jumped to her feet with a movement like a startled rabbit.

"Goodness, no!" she cried. "I'll just run down to see that nothing's burning, and then we'll get busy taking down curtains in my room. One good thing—it's passably clean."

I took hold of her shoulders and swung her around facing me.

"Something's the matter with her ego," I said gravely to Lillian. "She's getting conceited in her old age. This is the first time I ever heard her acknowledge that any room in her house was fit to enter."

Lillian laughed merrily, for she also had heard Mrs. Durkee, most fastidious of housekeepers, claim fussily that her rooms looked "a sight." My little neighbor wrenched herself free indignantly.

"You think you're just too cunning for anything, don't you?" she asked scathingly.

But there was a gratified twinkle in her eyes as she hurried toward the stairs that told me she was not offended by my reference to her careful housekeeping.

As the door opened behind her I rushed over to Lillian and hugged her.

"You wizard!" I cried.

"The work's all to do yet," she reminded me. "And—don't you think it would be advisable to give Edith a tip as to Mrs. Durkee's change of heart? She was decidedly resentful, don't you think, and we can't have her spilling the beans with Her Fluffiness by being offish."

"No—of course," I answered, slowly—"but I wish you'd speak to her. I'll be sure to make a mess of it."

Lillian looked at me keenly.

"Yes, you are so tactless," she retorted mockingly. "But I'll be the goat. Only—you must come with me."

Her look told me plainly why she wished me to be present at her little colloquy with Edith Fairfax, although she would never have put the thought into words. But I knew that she did not wish the girl to think that I had any reason to avoid her, any reluctance to see her.

We hurried to the back of the house, where we found Edith striding hurriedly up and down the studio, her fingers clenched in her palms. She was evidently trying to walk off the anger that was consuming her.

She started as she saw us, but Lillian gave her no time for either resentment or embarrassment.

"I don't blame you for fighting the atmosphere," she said brusquely, "but I've news for you. Mrs. Durkee saw the light a few minutes ago, and we're to have a busy time tomorrow changing Leila's room over into a bower of her favorite rose color. And we're counting on your help, so don't be sore at Her Fluffiness. It was merely thoughtlessness, I'm sure."

"Perhaps," Edith Fairfax returned dryly, then she looked with warm affection at Lillian. "But I knew whose thoughtfulness it was!" she said.

UNUSUAL CONDITION

Texas Lady Suffered With Pulling and Aching Pains in Her Back, Which Cardui Relieved.

Houston, Texas.—Mrs. C. D. Cook, of 1912 Whitty Street, this city, recently said: "About four months after my marriage, I . . . began suffering much pain, and knew that my condition was unusual, but couldn't just decide what was wrong. I had to go to bed. . . .

"All across my back and hips were pains, pulling and aching until I could hardly sit up. I stayed in bed a few days. My husband had heard of Cardui . . . so I told him he might get it.

"After I had taken Cardui a few days, I was up. I took five bottles and haven't been in bed since for this trouble, for if I have the least symptoms of this trouble I get Cardui and take it in time.

"I have a number of friends who have used Cardui, and they recommend it very highly."

The experience of this Texas lady is similar to that related by thousands of other women.

Cardui is purely vegetable, and mild and gentle in its action. Cardui may be the very medicine you need if suffering with womanly troubles.

HEAL SKIN DISEASES

Apply Zemo, Clean, Penetrating, Antiseptic Liquid

It is unnecessary for you to suffer with eczema, blotches, ringworm, rashes and similar skin troubles. Zemo, obtained at any drug store for 35c, or $1.00 for extra large bottle, and promptly applied, will usually give instant relief from itching torture. It cleanses and soothes the skin and heals quickly and effectively most skin diseases.

Zemo is a wonderful, penetrating, disappearing liquid and is soothing to the most delicate skin. It is not greasy, is easily applied and costs little. Get it today and save all further distress.

In skin troubles, ordinary soaps are irritating and liable to aggravate the condition. Use Zemo soap. It is antiseptic, soothing, and hastens the process of healing.

KEEP URIC ACID OUT OF JOINTS

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers To Eat Less Meat and Take Salts.

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly; keep the feet dry; avoid exposure; eat less meat, but drink plenty of good water.

Rheumatism is a direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid which is absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate the uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.—Adv.

SHE NEVER FELT BETTER IN LIFE

Mogadore Woman Hadn't Enjoyed Good Health in Six Months Before Taking Taniac.

"I don't believe I ever felt better in my life than I have since Taniac relieved my stomach trouble," said Mrs. Opal Brannan, of Mogadore, Ohio.

"I began to suffer dreadfully from indigestion about six months ago, and no matter how careful I was about eating I had awful pains in the pit of my stomach. The food just seemed to roll up in a ball that felt heavy as lead, and it would be hours before I could get any relief.

"At night I seldom got any rest to speak of, and would get up in the mornings feeling tired and miserable. I nearly always had a bad brassy taste in my mouth. I used to dread my housework, it was such a burden to me in my weakened condition. Several of my neighbors had been so benefited by Taniac I decided to take it, and it certainly did for me everything they said it would.

"My indigestion is perfect now, and all my troubles have disappeared. Not only that, but there is something about Taniac that makes a person feel fine all the time. I am just full of energy now and my housework doesn't bother me a bit in fact I enjoy it. I value Taniac far above any medicine I ever tried and I don't believe its equal has ever been made."

Taniac is sold in Marion by the Dimble Pharmacy; in LaRue by Sifrit's, and in Waldo by Apt Pharmacy.—Adv.

TOTAL FIRE LOSS HERE LAST YEAR IS $17,626

According to Annual Report of Chirf McFarland.

TWENTY-FOUR SPECIAL CALLS DURING THE YEAR

While the Number of Alarms Received Is 136—Six False Alarms.

Fire Chief T. J. McFarland has completed his annual report for the year of 1920 and filed the same with the mayor and director of public safety. The report is quite interesting, embodying the roster of the firemen, an invoice of property and equipment, the number and causes of fires, the amount of lors and insurance and the special calls responded to.

During the year there was one death in the department and one resignation, while the adoption of the platoon system necessitated the promotion of three men to captaincies and nine appointments during the year. The department now has twenty-eight regular men and three call men. The chief states that the platoon system has been a great success and are in better condition and more contented. The men on the off shift are always subject to call and all responded on the one call for them during the year.

Twenty-four special calls were responded to by the firemen, some of these being to recover drowning bodies and some to resuscitate persons who had been rescued from drowning, and for other causes for the safety of life and property. The number of fire alarms received was 136, while six false alarms were sent in. Sparks from chimneys caused twenty-three fires, ten were due to stoves being too close to wood partitions, nine were caused by children playing with matches, nine calls for chimneys burning out, seven by short circuits from electric wiring and the other resulted from numerous other causes. Of the responses to calls, fifty-four were to residences, twelve to burning automobiles, six to garages, five to factories, eight for burning grass and the others to buildings, lots, stores and offices and shops.

Total Fire Loss $17,626.84.

The total value of buildings and contents where fires occurred was $492,110 and the insurance on those insured was $385,278. The losses on buildings insured was $9,054.84 and the losses on buildings not insured was $450. The losses on contents insured amounted to $7,491.86 and that on contents not insured was $590. The total fire loss during the year was only $17,626.84, which is below the average loss for the last ten years.

The departments laid 11,500 feet of hose during the year, used 250 gallons of chemicals and two pyrene extinguishers. The inventory shows the department No. 1 with buildings, equipment, fire alarm system and supplies to be valued at $69,782.04, department No. 2 at $10,541, the ground not being owned by the city, and department No. 3 at $15,515, making a total valuation of $95,-838.04.

The engine of department No. 1 travelled 177 miles and pumped for two hours and fifty minutes. The upkeep, including gasolene, oils, repairs, supplies and new tires, the first since April, 1915, was $727.97.

The engine of department No. 2 travelled 101½ miles and pumped for three hours and fifty-five minutes, the upkeep being $927.93 which included an expense of $711,-45 for new tires, the old tires having been used since March, 1912. The chief recommended a starter for the engine to lessen the danger to the firemen.

The engine of department No. 3 travelled almost 210 miles and pumped two hours and ten minutes. The upkeep was $691.32, which included $226.61 for new rear tires, the old tires having been on since 1915.

Travels 752 Miles.

The chief car traveled 762 miles and the total upkeep was $100.17. His car was used in most all of the special calls during the year and was out of service only nine hours.

The aerial ladder truck travelled little more than 226 miles and the total upkeep, including repairs was $75.21. The summary of the figures will show the departments operated at a very small expense considering the new equipment and supplies necessary for the apparatus, this being largely due to the mechanical ability of the men in the departments who were able to take care of most of the repair work.

In conclusion the chief expressed his thanks to the city officials and members of the police department for their assistance and cooperation during the year and expressed the opinion that the public can play an important part in lessening the fire danger and reducing the loss.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG
It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets
The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.
Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.
Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.
Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.

TOO TIRED TO WORK?
If you get up in the morning tired, if you weary with little exertion and if vim and go are lacking, depend upon it that your liver is torpid. One dose of Schenck's Mandrake Pills will "wake up" that lazy liver and make you feel like new. Schenck's Mandrake Pills are worth a trial tonight.

b Home Committee Not To ake Report Until Some Time in April.

Mrs. John H. Guthery was elected sident of the Marion County Fedtion of Women's clubs at its anl meeting held at the library rsday afternoon. The other offrs elected were:

Mrs S. L. Lorka, first vice president, Mrs. W. D. Clary, second vice president; Mrs. Dorothy Stiver, recording secretary, Mrs. J. W. McMurray, corresponding secretary, Miss Anna Lorig, treasurer; Mrs. F. H. Kirk, auditor. The chairmen chosen for the standing committees are as follows:

Extension, Mrs. H. K. Henderson; music, Mrs. P. E. Moder; finance, Mrs. W. T. Jones; patronage, Mrs. E. H. Bowyer; health, Mrs. Emma Lu Ber Voorhees; memorial, Miss Rose Lowrey; press, Mrs. W. H. Holverstott; legislative, Miss Donna Ruth Carpenter; co-operation, Mrs. W. F. Pierce, and art, Mr. O. J. Clevenger.

The Marion Literary guild, a new club of twenty-two members, was admitted into the federation, making eighteen clubs now in the federation.

Show Is Postponed

The motion-picture show benefit, it was announced, would be postponed indefinitely.

Dr. H. R. McVay reported that fifteen seals had been purchased, one for eight school buildings, out of the money from the sale of red cross seals, and that he thought there would be surplus enough to purchase a filing cabinet for the school nurse to keep records of her cases.

At the close of the meeting, which was very largely attended by members, patronesses and some guests, a splendid musical and art program was given.

Mrs. Asa Queen and Miss Miriam Smart played a piano duet, "Symphony from Mendelssohn," and Mrs. Lyman Jones sang "At Dawning," Cadman, and "A Morning in Spring," Matthews.

By State Federation.

The art committee showed slides on "Color and Furniture" furnished by the state federation, and the lecture was given by Mrs. J. W. McMurray, assisted by two of the members of the federation.

After the program a silver tea was served, to which the members, patronesses and guests were invited. A short program was rendered.

The committee to report on the desirability of either the Judge W. K. Thompson home on west Center street or the Thompson home on west Center street, as to be made for a recreation home, will not make its report until some time in April.

resolution to repeal virtually all of the war laws, the house voting to concur in senate amendments. The measure now goes to the president.

The vote was unanimous, 291 members favoring concurrence. As finally acted on, the Lever food and fuel act would be among the laws repealed by the resolution. The trading with the enemy and liberty bonds acts, and the statute creating the war finance corporation would remain in force.

The resolution provides for the restoration of the original espionage act of 1917 and the repeal of the more drastic mandatory law of 1919.

CHAMP CLARK PASSES AWAY

up his duties as speaker of the house of representatives, to which post he had been elected shortly before the convention and, although taking issue with President Wilson on different questions, was one of the leading supporters of a good proportion of the patriotic measures for winning the war. He held the speakership for four terms after being the Democratic minority leader for six years. Known as the "Lion of the Tribe of Democracy," he has been called the most beloved figure in the American congress without regard to party or politics.

Born in Kentucky.

Christened James Beauchamp Clark, the congressman was born at Anderson, Kentucky, on March 7, 1849. Early in life he abbreviated his name to "Champ," and until the 1912 campaign few outside of his immediate friends had guessed that there was more than this to his original nomenclature. Like many of our best known Americans, he had worked his way up from the ranks of the toiling masses. He earned his first money as a farm hand. Later he became a clerk in a general store and in a few months was graduated to a country newspaper.

The one-time speaker rounded out his education in the Kentucky university, Bethany college and the Cincinnati Law school. At the age of twenty-two he was president of Marshall college, being the youngest college president in the country. Mr. Clark became a Missourian in the early seventies. He started his career in his adopted state as a struggling young lawyer, took a flyer into politics, became prosecuting attorney in Pike county, and then went to the state legislature. His career in that law-making body made him a national figure. Among other measures which he had spread on the statute books of the state was a primary law, an anti-trust measure and an election law introducing the Australian ballot system.

When the 1904 Democratic National convention in St. Louis came along he was selected as permanent chairman and was called on to head the committee that went to formally notify Alton B. Parker of his nomination to head the ticket.

Congressman in 1893.

He went to the national capital as a member of the fifty-third congress in 1893 from the Ninth Missouri District, and has been a member of that body ever since with the exception of one term—1895 to 1897—when he was beaten. His present term would have sent him back into private life, however, he having been beaten at the last election. He first became minority leader of the house at the second session of the sixty-second congress. He succeeded John Sharpe Williams in that post. As a member of the ways and means committee which drafted the Payne-Aldrich tariff act he led the Democratic attack on high duties, delivering one speech which lasted for nearly five hours against the measure.

Champ Clark could have been senator from his home state just as easily as representative, but he chose to remain in the lower house. The state governor offered him senatorship to succeed Senator Stone after he had several times refused to make the race, but he declined it.

Attempts were made in the last national campaign to start a new boom for his nomination, but he gave it no outward encouragement and it never reached more than the preliminary stage. When friends waited on him to try to induce him to make an aggressive fight for the honor he told them:

"I have not lifted and do not intend to lift my finger or open my mouth to get the nomination. No man could decline such an honor, however, if offered freely. All that I have said is that 'Barkis is willin'."

Sponsored Daylight Saving.

As a congressman and leader of the lower house of congress Clark's name has been associated with some of the greatest legislation of modern times. He has been a consistent fighter for a uniform primary law for the entire country, has ranked as one of the leading supporters of the daylight saving movement, and his name is linked with many constructive measures now on the statute books.

He has also made a reputation in congress as an earnest advocate of a curb on oratory—especially the obstructive kind. He was a strong opponent of the selective draft act, but, when the country was in war, distinguished himself by his aggressive support of measures designed to bring a speedy victory out of the contest.

During one of the earlier Liberty loan drives he drew the fire of many Wall street notables by charging that a ring of New York financiers had been trying to hamper the sale of the bonds. Later, in view of the splendid showing made by this district, he announced that he had withdrawn his criticism. For many years he had been an advocate of government ownership and control of public utilities.

Upon the celebration of his seventieth birthday last year the veteran congressman philosophized on his years as follows:

"There is an old saying that a woman is as old as she looks and a man as old as he feels. I feel as young and as strong and as springy as I did the first day I ever set foot in Washington, which was in 1893. I have spent a very busy life. I have a great many pleasant memories and some that are not so pleasant. I have held public office a good deal and have always discharged my duties—pleasant and unpleasant."

Married in 1881.

In 1881 Mr. Clark married Genevieve Bennett, of Aux Vasse, Callaway county, Missouri. Mrs. Clark has been a familiar figure in the speaker's bench in the gallery during the long years of her husband's service in that body and has been prominent in the social life of the capital. She was an ardent suffragette in the days before women were allowed to vote and took an active part in most of her husband's campaigns. Bennett Clark, son of the speaker, was made parliamentarian of the house in the sixty-third congress.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Longshore, of east Church street, Tuesday returned from a trip to Rock Ledge, Florida.

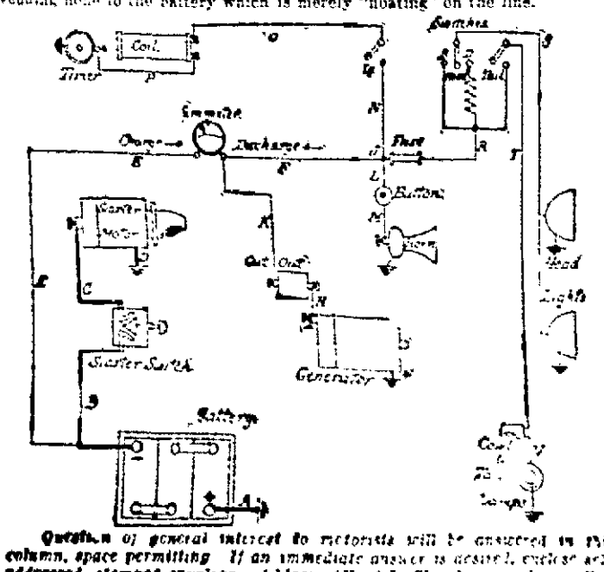
The Electric System

THE ACCOMPANYING DIAGRAM illustrates in simplified form the various elements of a typical starting, lighting and ignition system and their electrical connections, the apparatus being arranged on the single wire system, in which the car frame is utilized for the return of the current. Ground connections, or connections to the frame or metal parts attached to it are represented by four short parallel lines of varying lengths. Here, one terminal (the X) of the battery is permanently grounded to the car frame, through the very heavy cable A and its other terminal (the —), is connected through heavy cable B to the starter-switch and through cable C to the starter-motor, the other terminal of which is grounded at D, so that when the starting-pedal is pressed the battery sends current through the circuit just traced and cranks the engine. A wire E connects to the ammeter and, from the other ammeter post, wire F runs to the junction point J, where the ignition, horn and lighting circuits take their current. Whenever any of these devices draw current, it passes through cable A, the battery, wires E and F and the ammeter and flows in the direction of the arrow marked "discharge," being indicated by the ammeter as a discharge, its pointer moving to the right of the central zero point. The + terminal of the generator is grounded by attachment to the car's powerplant, while its terminal is connected to one terminal of the reverse current cut-out or relay by wire H, the other cut-out terminal being connected through wire K to the ammeter. The cut-out is so arranged as automatically to interrupt the electric circuit within it at all times when the generator is not being run by the engine or is running too slowly to be able to force current into the battery. If it were not for the cut-out, the battery would pass current through wire E, the ammeter, wires K and H through the generator, at all times when the engine was not running at a fair speed, and the battery would soon become exhausted. When the engine is running, in service, the generator delivers current in the direction opposite to the battery and the pressure of this current is sufficient to overpower the electrical pressure of the battery, thus charging it. From the junction point or connection board J, a wire L leads to the horn-button, and another M from the button to the horn, the other terminal of which is grounded. The ignition circuit, starting at junction point J, is through wire N to the ignition switch, from its other terminal through wire O to the spark-coil primary winding, from its other terminal, through P, to the insulated contact of the timer and through its other contact to ground in the engine. The main lamp circuit starts at J through a fuse, by wire R to the lamp switches, the office of the fuse being to melt and break the circuit in case an unusually large current flows as for instance, in event of a short-circuit of the lamp wiring to ground. The headlight switch, if thrown onto its lefthand point, allows current to flow, at full battery pressure, through wire S to the insulated contacts of both headlight bulbs and to ground through their filaments by way of the car frame. When this switch is thrown to the right the current has to flow through the dimmer resistance, by which a portion of its energy is absorbed, causing the headlights to burn "dim." Current for the tail and cowl lamps is taken through the third switch and wire T to the cowl lamp bulb, from its other contact, by wire V to the tail lamp bulb and to ground on the car frame. In such a system as this the battery is said to be "floated" on the circuit, that is, its relation to the circuit is an instable one. At times it is giving current to the circuit, at others it is receiving current from the circuit and occasionally it is doing neither, but is merely acting as a reservoir of electrical energy, with no flow of current through it, but ready to discharge or to receive charging current as conditions may determine. For example, when the ignition or lamps are taking current and the engine is stopped or running so slowly that the cut-out does not connect it to the system, all current is supplied by the battery and the ammeter indicates discharge; but when the generator is running and connected to the circuit with none or but a small part of the lamps in use, it is not only furnishing the ignition current and the small required lighting current but is sending charging current to the battery and the ammeter shows charge. With ignition and all lamps on, at certain engine speeds, the ammeter sometimes points to zero, indicating that the generator is producing all the current required but is sending none to the battery which is merely "floating" on the line.



Questions of general interest to motorists will be answered in this column, space permitting. If an immediate answer is desired, enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope. Address Albert L. Clough, care of our office.

Do You Save?

Suppose each of our stores averaged 300 customers, and having 312 busy stores in our chain would approximate 93,600 customers, and let us estimate the cost of each customer's year's clothing needs would not exceed $75. 93,600 customers would consume $7,200,000 yearly. This is based on a very conservative estimate.

Multiply the above figures by three and you can get a fair estimate of the immense volume of business we do yearly.

Purchasing this vast amount of merchandise yearly, why shouldn't we undersell one-man stores, and why shouldn't you save?

... is that you're putting in ... Grandpa Goosey?" asked ...ggily, as he saw the goose ... taking something white ...ish.

... is sugar," quacked Grandpa Goosey. "I always put plenty of sugar in my apple pie. But what is that brown stuff you are stirring in your bowl of batter?"

"Why, this is chocolate," the bunny answered. "I always put chocolate in a chocolate cake. And I'm sure my cake will be much better than your pie!"

"Oh, not at all!" laughed Grandpa Goosey, in a jolly voice, for Uncle Wiggily was only in fun, you know. "My pie will be the best. I'll let you taste it when I've baked it."

Well, the two friends finished mixing up the different things they thought went into cakes and pies, and then they put what they had made into the oven.

"It won't take them long to bake," said Uncle Wiggily. "We'll play checkers while we're waiting."

So the bunny and goose gentlemen played a checker game, and pretty soon Uncle Wiggily looked in the oven and said:

"Our things are baked!" And, really the chocolate cake looked very nice, and so did Grandpa Goosey's pie.

"Here, just try a nibble of my pie," invited Grandpa Goosey to Uncle Wiggily, cutting a piece of what he had baked.

"And do try some of my chocolate cake!" begged Uncle Wiggily, just as he had often heard Nurse Jane say.

Grandpa Goosey took a nibble of the cake and cried:

"Oh, my! What did you put in this? Oh, how my tongue burns! Oh, I must get an icicle. That stuff you thought was powdered chocolate, Uncle Wiggily, must have been pepper! I never ate such a hot cake!"

And just then Uncle Wiggily took a taste of the pie, and the bunny cried:

"Water! Water! Quick! Oh, what a taste. Salt! Salt! What you thought was sugar was salt, Grandpa Goosey, and your pie is as salty as a codfish! I guess after this we'd better let Nurse Jane do the cooking!"

"Yes, we had," agreed the gooseygander gentleman, as he cooled his beak with an icicle, while Mr. Longears ate a snowball. Then they threw away the things they had spoiled. And when she came home, oh, how Nurse Jane laughed!

I could not sleep very good last night, and Jubilee did not sleep very good either, because he don't sleep when I don't. I kept my eyes shut but it seemed like if I would open them I would see Hopper's cut off leg floating around in the air over my bed. I do not know if legs have ghosts like whole people, but I expect they do. I went to a picture show once where a man was shot by another man and his ghost was in the picture and we could see the furniture and everything right through it, and it had the same clothes and shoes and necktie on that it had on when it was shot, so that prove that clothes has ghosts, too, and if clothes have ghosts I bet legs do.

I wonder if a man that sells clothes

So we all got close together and went across it hopping up and down and it rubberest quite a lot.

dies and gets to be a ghost he sells ghost clothes to other ghosts. I bet a ghost is awful hard to fit. My ears look like they had been skinned. My ant sniffed at the table this morning and said I look disgusting. My mother had not been speaking to her on account of her fur, but when my ant said that my mother kept eating her breakfast without looking at my ant and said that she believed railroads was still running trains back to where my ant come from, but my ant did not get mad and leave the table. She only does that when she is about done eating.

I pried the Lost Bag's of Tripe's game eye which I hit with a snowball open and looked at it. His eye is as good as ever on the inside; it is only awule shut.

When school let out we all went down to the pond to make some rubber ice, but it did not rubber when I ran across it very much, so we all got close together and went across it hopping up and down and it rubbered quite a lot, only when we got near shore coming back we stepped on a mushy place and all got wet. We all went around to Hoppers because he was the only dry one in the bunch, and his mother made up a hot fire in the Kitchen for us to get dry by. She wanted us to undress but we wouldn't.

She said she wished Hopper was as tough as me. I told her he could be awful tough without being as tough as me. She sat and looked at us getting dry, and she pulled Hopper up tight to her and a couple of tears come out of her eyes. I was not quite dry but I went home. He is a good little old scout and he tries awful hard to be tough so his mother won't be ashamed of him. After supper my father said I had been a good boy so he was going to let me go to bed early. I have to sleep on my back to keep my ears from getting stuck to the pillow.

To Withdraw American Troops.

Washington, March 2.—The apparent approach of a European crisis caused Republican leaders to hasten their plans for a withdrawal of the last vestige of American participation soon after March 4. With the allies threatening to occupy German territory, plans for bringing about a state of peace between the United States and Germany through the passage of the Knox resolution are being perfected in the senate.

Uncle Sam May Intervene.

Washington, March 2. — The state department announced that in the event that the government of the canal zone does not believe the Panaman government capable of maintaining order in and around the harbor at Panama City and Balboa, that American troops will be stationed in Panaman territory to keep order, such action being provided for in the treaty between the United States and Panama.

Does Your Car Run as Sweet As You'd Have 'Em Believe?

Your motoring friends are a skeptical crew. They open an ear when you praise the old bus, but they discount by half ev'rything that you say.

They look to the road for all proof of your claims. They want you to show 'em that power and pep. You can if you use

Columbus Gasoline

You'll never have need or reason to apologize for sluggish performance when you're depending on Columbus.

It's just a good, pure, straight run, high test gasoline that is achieving for thousands of Ohio motorists the same results that you are seeking.

With Columbus in the tank of your car, the engine will start easily. You'll have power on steep hills and in heavy going. You'll get away from a full stop like a ten-second sprinter.

And big mileages! You'll be surprised how much farther you can travel on less.

A growing child needs twice the amount of food an adult needs —and why

EMINENT authorities on nutrition state that a growing child needs twice the amount of food, in proportion to weight, that an adult needs.

For the child not only uses up more energy than a grown person, but he has to have a lot of food to help him grow.

The most important of all energy foods is Dextrose. Every bit of starch and sugar you eat in bread, potatoes or vegetables—has to be changed into Dextrose, before your system can use it as energy food.

This is one reason why Karo, the Great American Syrup, is such a splendid food—especially for growing children. Karo contains a very large percentage of Dextrose, so it is almost a predigested food.

Give your boys and girls plenty of rich nourishing Karo—on cakes or spread on bread, it will make them robust and sturdy.

Your Protection

BLUE Karo
The standard table syrup. Also for cooking, baking and candy making. Light brown color. Delicious flavor—a honey-boiled syrup.

RED Karo
The ideal Syrup for every use—for cooking, baking, candy making and preserving. Blended of the choicest Karo sugar cane syrup to which is added the delicious flavor.

GREEN Karo
Flavored with highest grade and purest sugar. Very economical to serve—absolutely pure. The makers of Karo use the world's largest cane of the highest grade purest sugar—and it showed even more clearly.

PLAN TO RING BELLS AND TO BLOW WHISTLES

When Marionite Takes Oath as President Friday.

Following suggestions received from a number of citizens Mayor T. E. Andrews has heartily approved the plan of blowing the factory whistles and ringing the church bells of the city at 11 o'clock, Friday morning, when President-Elect Warren G. Harding will take the oath of office. It is the object to hold a five-minute observance at that time as a tribute to Marion's distinguished citizen.

THE RAILROADS

The Hocking Valley has issued circulars, calling attention to a meeting of representatives of the various branches of common labor of the company with the officials of the company to be held at the Spaar building, in Columbus, at 10 o'clock in the morning of March 10. The meeting is to be held for the purpose of discussing the wage reduction of the employes which will become effective April 1.

A force of track laborers of the Hocking Valley is raising the track and putting in new ballast at the crossover of the Big-Four, today.

H J Hall, yardmaster of the Erie, at Kent, visited in local railroad circles, Tuesday.

THURS. — FRIDAY SATURDAY

MARION WHERE ALL MARION GOES

A Paramount-Artcraft Picture

WORTH GOING MILES TO SEE!

Screamingly funny!

Delicously shocking!

Thomas H. Ince presents

DOUGLAS MacLEAN AND DORIS MAY--

in Fensely Interesting!

Castly Entertaining!

He was a doctor without practice and a spender without funds. So he sent a "fake" wedding announcement to everyone he knew and planned to live on the returns. What has this to do with MARY'S ANKLE? EVERYTHING!

Douglas Mac Lean and Doris May are rapidly coming to the front as the ideal exponent of "youthful types." If you have never seen them in their refreshing style of comedy, come and see this one.

PRESIDENT-ELECT IS MADE KNIGHT TEMPLAR

Many Distinguished Lodge Dignitaries Witness Initiation.

GENERAL LEONARD WOOD SPEAKS AT THE TEMPLE

Introduced by Mr. Harding, Who Also Makes an Address to the Brethren.

All the orders of knighthood were conferred upon President-Elect Warren G. Harding by Marion Commandery, No. 26, Knights Templars Tuesday evening. The work was put on in a most impressive manner in the presence of about 600 knights, including supreme and grand officers and many other visiting knights from all parts of Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Tennessee and other states. About fifty past commanders from the various commanderies in Ohio and about fifteen past grand commanders of Ohio were in attendance.

The work began about 7 o'clock with the conferring of the order of red cross by the officers of Marion commandery, who also conferred the order of Malta.

General Wood Speaks.

Following the conferring of the degrees of Malta, General Leonard Wood, who had come to Marion to meet in conference with the distinguished candidate of the evening, made a short address to the assembled templars, which was rapturously received. While his remarks were, in part, on matters fraternal, he went into affairs national and international and said in part:

"In the incoming administration we are going to have a government under the constitution with every department therein functioning within its own limitations; a government which will be like a rock against all autocracy, whether that of labor or of capital; a government with a strong foreign policy protecting its citizens wherever they may be so long as they live within the laws of the land of their residence; a government which while seeking peace and friendship, is going to be strong for American rights; a government in which we are one and all heart and soul behind the president-elect in making his administration a success and giving America that leadership which is hers.

Tribute of Loyalty.

"I am delighted to be here and to be one of those present on this occasion to pay my tribute of respect and loyalty to the president-elect."

General Wood was but recently taken into the commandery at Evanston, Illinois.

The local commandery was assisted in conferring the order of temple by Grand Master Joseph K. Orr, of the Grand encampment of the United States, who was here from Atlanta, Georgia; Troy Beatty, of Nashville, Tennessee, grand prelate of the Grand encampment of the United States, Thomas J. Jones, of Cleveland, grand commander of the Grand commandery of Ohio; Daniel Jones, of Toledo, deputy grand commander of Ohio; Edward G. Craven, of Tiffin, grand junior warden of Ohio; Edwin Palmer, grand sword-bearer of Ohio; Joseph A. Wortman, of Defiance, grand guard of Ohio; Robert A. Greenfield, of Mt. Vernon, New York, grand commander of the Grand Commandery of New York.

In the explanatory part of the work several past commanders of the local commandery took part.

Harding Speaks.

After the work, Grand Master Orr, Senator Harding and Grand Commander Jones spoke.

"It is a little hard to fashion one's thoughts into words at times," said the president elect. "I do not want, or intend, to arrogate special favors, but it seems of late that many have come to me. This work seems to have been designed to fit my particular case."

The president-elect then went on to say that he had had a thought which he had believed in all sincerity his own; that he had thought of approaching his great responsibility with humility and faith and in reverence, yet he found the lesson of the evening's work to be that all great responsibilities should be thus approached. He was glad to feel that Masonry stood for good government and reverence for our flag, and questioned if any one would hesitate to undertake any great task, accept any great responsibility, if he knew the manhood of Masonry was solidly behind him.

Regarding Patriotism.

In reference to patriotism, he said he had just returned from the South. "It flourishes there," he said. "I find the spirit there, as here. Do not worry about the flag. All America is consecrated to it. I promise you one thing above all else. I may fail in some things, I may fail in many, but I will not in one. While I love peace as much as any man in the world; while I think peace the greatest blessing of mankind, I would not hesitate to draw the sword in defense of our national honor.

"I love these reproductions of tradition. Tradition seldom has preserved anything not worth while. I have loved the story of Christ. You can bring it home to every man. Every man has his Gethsemane. Every man has his cross and the measure of mankind is how he bears it. Some fall under it. Some die upon it, but the man who performs a service in life never fails to live again.

"There's a finer knighthood today than in the days of the Crusaders, only we evidence it differently. The world is growing better every day. One of the twelve disciples betrayed Christ. Today were there a Judas in twelve, it would mean an upheaval. We are going on to a finer and a better order in the world. The World war isn't chargable to the Christian religion, but to the failure of those who profess it. Too often we take an obligation carelessly. Too often we do not give it the consideration which we should.

Mindful of Duties.

"I am mindful tonight that, three days hence, I am to take an oath—a solemn one, one that no man can approach without solemn thought. I mean to take that obligation to defend and preserve in humility and faith and in the love of truth. I want your help.

"Next Administration Yours."

"I want you to realize that the next administration of the greatest land on earth is yours, not mine; it's that of 100,000,000, and I want the help of all of them."

After the meeting a picture was taken of the assembled company.

Preceding the work a dinner was given at the temple for about 200, including the officers of the local commandery and distinguished guests. An excellent menu was served by the ladies of the Eastern Star, the tables being attractively decorated in the national colors. During the dinner hour the company was entertained with music by the Masonic orchestra.

EDMONDSON ISSUES APPEAL FOR KIDDIES

Who Are Starving in Europe. Marion Behind.

The following appeal for the starving children in Europe was made today through the county chairman, A. C. Edmondson:

"Hunger, privation, suffering and death shall march unabated throughout Eastern and Central Europe. Our county is requested to raise $7,800—750 families at $10 per family to save those starving children. We are still several hundred dollars short of that amount. We earnestly appeal to all that can to give their bit to this worthy call of the destitute waifs. We are requested to close the campaign by Saturday, March 5, if possible.

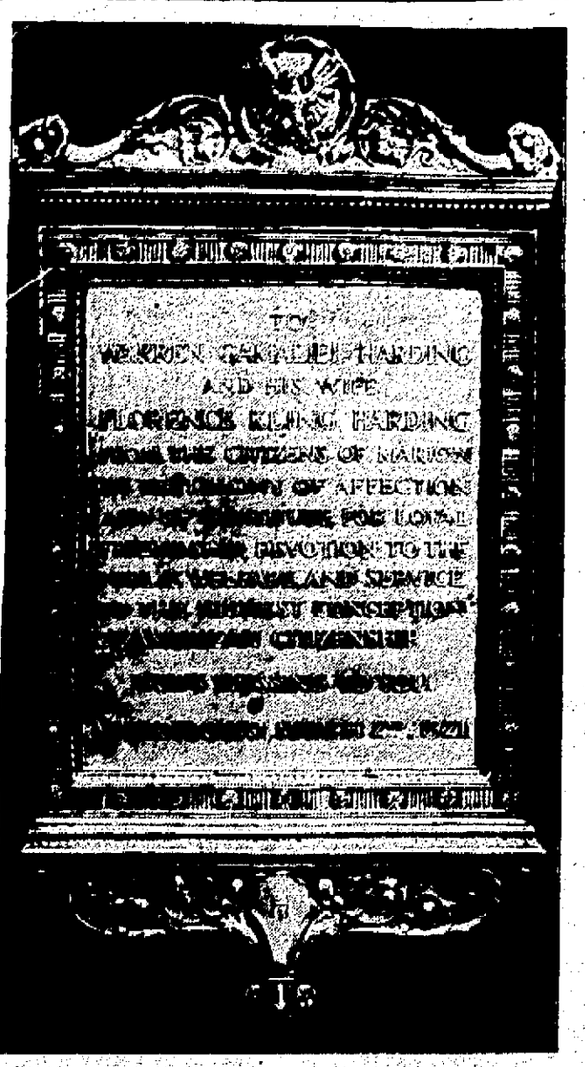
"All contributions should be sent or given to John E. Waddell, treasurer, of the Marion National bank. We sincerely hope that every person or organization that can afford will give what they can to aid this cry to save us or we will die. Your fathers, your mothers, brothers and sisters, think what you would desire if you were in need of food and clothing that you might live. If each and every one will give according to their means we will not fail, as we never have in our past in such urgent and much needed assistance."

POLICE COURT

Put To Work.

Oscar Johnson, colored, and John Siebert, arrested Tuesday for loitering in the railroad yards, were each fined five dollars by the mayor, this morning, and in default of payment were put to work on the streets.

Here Is Silver Plaque Presented to Hardings



Dr. T. H. McAfee, for the citizens of Marion, this morning presented to President-Elect and Mrs. W. G. Harding at the farewell reception at the Harding Mt. Vernon avenue home, a beautiful solid silver plaque.

Manufactured of a special design by the Gorham company, Providence, Rhode Island, silversmiths, the plaque is eight and one-half by fourteen inches and approximately one-half an inch thick. Around the raised lettering is a handsome raised border and the design at the top has in the center an eagle resembling the coat of arms of the United States. The design at the base includes a letter "H." The plaque is mounted on dark highly polished mahogany.

The lettering on the plaque reads:

TO
WARREN GAMALIEL HARDING
AND HIS WIFE
FLORENCE KLING HARDING
FROM THE CITIZENS OF MARION IN TESTIMONY OF AFFECTION
AND OF GRATITUDE FOR LOYAL
FRIENDSHIP DEVOTION TO THE PUBLIC WELFARE AND SERVICE
TO THE HIGHEST CONCEPTION
